General Comments

Committee on the Rights of the Child

General Comment No. 24 (2019) on children’s rights in the child justice system¹
Keywords: SOGI; access to justice, children, court, discrimination, intersectionality

IV. Core elements of a comprehensive child justice policy

D. Guarantees for a fair trial

40. Safeguards against discrimination are needed from the earliest contact with the criminal justice system and throughout the trial, and discrimination against any group of children requires active redress. In particular, gender-sensitive attention should be paid to girls and to children who are discriminated against on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity. Accommodation should be made for children with disabilities, which may include physical access to court and other buildings, support for children with psychosocial disabilities, assistance with communication and the reading of documents, and procedural adjustments for testimony.

Subject matter: Hate speech and verbal assault of a lesbian woman and LGBT activist by a representative of a regional legislative assembly

Articles of the Convention: 2 (b), (d) and (e), 5 (a) and 7 (c)

Background

1. The author is K.K., a Russian national born in 1983. She claims a violation of her rights guaranteed by articles 2 (b), (d) and (e), 5 (a) and 7 (c) of the Convention. [...].

Facts as submitted by the author

2.1 The author, who is an activist for [LGBT] rights and a volunteer legal counsel for the organization Vykhod, was invited to assist with running the QueerFest festival held in 2013. On 19 September 2013, at the entrance of the building in which the event was held, she saw a deputy of the Saint Petersburg Legislative Assembly, Vitaly Milonov, with representatives of the police and several other men, whom she recognized as perpetrators of previous assaults against activists for [LGBT] rights. Under instructions from Mr. Milonov, the police requested that the organizers of the event provide them with the lease documents for the venue. The author intervened to clarify the legal aspects of the request. At that moment, Mr. Milonov interrupted the conversation, saying that the author and other participants of the event were not Russians and that they bowed to foreign diplomats and begged them for money. Subsequently, he and his party continued to threaten and insult visitors and volunteers at the festival. In particular, he used such words as "spidozny", "petukh" and "petushatnik". With regard to women, he used the phrases "cut your hair, animal" and "beast", and he called one woman the "husband" of another woman. He called the author "stukachka" and "kovyryalka", when, seeing one of Mr. Milonov's men trying to use violence against an event participant, she had asked police officers to intervene. However, the police officers took no action in response to the offensive conduct against the author.

2.2 On 30 September 2013, the author filed a request to initiate proceedings against Mr. Milonov with the Office of the Prosecutor of Saint Petersburg and with the Office of the Prosecutor of Primorsky District, under articles 5.61 (insult) and 5.62 (discrimination) of the Code of Administrative Offences of the Russian Federation. The Office in Primorsky District rejected the request on 17 October 2013 on the grounds that the Code of Administrative Offences did not contain any regulations with regard to the administrative liability of deputies, because deputies of the Legislative Assembly had immunity and any prosecution against them must be regulated by a special federal law, but such a law had not been adopted. The author appealed to the Primorsky District Court of Saint Petersburg on 30 January 2014, requesting that the decision of the Office of the Prosecutor of Primorsky District be quashed. On 20 March 2014, the Primorsky District Court of Saint Petersburg rejected the appeal.

2.3 On 9 November 2013, the author filed a civil lawsuit against Mr. Milonov with the Oktyabrsksky District Court of Saint Petersburg asking the court to protect her honour and dignity and to recognize a violation of her moral rights. The case was transferred to the Kirovsky District Court, due to its jurisdiction. On 29 April 2014, the lawsuit was rejected, in a decision stating that there was no evidence proving that the defendant had made offensive
2.4 On 28 May 2014, the author appealed to the Saint Petersburg City Court against the decision of the Kirovsky District Court. On 14 October 2014, the Saint Petersburg City Court denied the appeal.

2.5 On an unspecified date, the author filed a cassation appeal to the Presidium of the Saint Petersburg City Court. On 27 February 2015, the Presidium denied the appeal, stating that the basis for revocation or amendment of a court ruling under the cassation procedure required a material violation of substantive and procedural norms of law, which had not been found in this case.

Complaint

3.1 The author claims that the State party has not provided effective legal protection tools and has not recognized the violation of her rights nor provided compensation or application of any other procedures aimed to restore her rights.

3.2 The author alleges a violation of her rights under articles 2 (b), (d) and (e) of the Convention, due to the humiliation and insult of her honour and dignity on the basis of her sexual orientation and gender identity and her affiliation with the [LGBT] communities.

3.3 The author also claims violation of her rights under article 5 (a) of the Convention, because she was humiliated and insulted for her non-compliance with stereotypes regarding the traditional role of women in gender relations and the social roles of [LBT] women.

3.4 Furthermore, the author claims a violation of article 7 (c) of the Convention, due to the discrimination and negative attitude that she experienced working as an advocate for an organization for [LGBT] rights.

State party’s observations on admissibility

4.3 The State party asserts that the author’s communication is also inadmissible due to non-substantiation. According to the State party, the submitted documents show that the national authorities have provided the author with lawful, reasoned and timely responses to her complaints and that the courts have carried out justice based on an adversarial approach and the principle of equality of the parties. The court of first instance found that the defendant’s words could not be construed as insults, and that decision was confirmed by both the appellate and cassation courts. The State party notes that the evidence presented by the author, including witness testimonies and video material, were fully and objectively studied by the courts and that that was reflected in their decisions.

Author’s comments on the State party’s observations on admissibility

5.6 As to the State party’s submission on the absence of the fact of insult, the author refers to the conclusion of a forensic linguistic examination conducted in another case, in the period 2015–2016, by the Kirovsky District Court of Saint Petersburg, in which a civil case was brought against Mr. Milonov by local activists for [LGBT] rights, male and female, for insulting them in a homophobic manner. The forensic expert in that case testified that the word “kovryalka”, when directed at a particular individual, is used as an insult and maintains its insulting meaning in practically any context. The author notes that the conclusions of the forensic expert are no different from the conclusions presented by a specialist in her case, however, in both cases, the claims were rejected. The author submits that this underscores the fact that the Russian Federation completely lacks domestic legal remedies against the discriminatory acts committed by the deputy of the Saint Petersburg Legislative Assembly, Mr. Milonov, against socially vulnerable groups within the population, such as [LGBT] persons and their rights defenders.

State party’s observations on the merits

6.1 On 6 May 2016, the State party submitted its observations on the merits. It notes that, when deciding the author’s lawsuit against Mr. Milonov, the Kirovsky District Court based its decision on the Constitution of the Russian Federation, the Civil Code and resolutions of the Supreme Court and found that there were no grounds for judicial protection of the author’s rights, because Mr. Milonov was expressing his subjective opinion and views. The State party submits that, upon analysing the collected evidence, including video footage of the 19 September 2013 events, the conclusions of the psychologist and linguists and the testimonies of witnesses, the Kirovsky District Court did not find the defendant’s words to be insulting or degrading to the honour and dignity of the author, because the words and phrases did not personally characterize the author, did not contain insulting, swear or abusive words and simply reflected the subjective opinion of the defendant towards the happenings, which he was free to express under the Constitution and international law. The court held that, just because the defendant had critically expressed his opinion and had disrespected the author by referring to her intimately by the pronoun ти, his actions could not be characterized as insulting or as degrading the honour, dignity and reputation of the author. The defendant’s attitude could have been the result of a conflict situation or could have been triggered by other factors, however, his actions do not contain elements of nationalism, xenophobia or misogyny, as argued in the lawsuit.

6.2 The State party further submits that the author’s claim that the video footage shows the manner in which Mr. Milonov directly addresses her and calls her “ковырьялка”, which is jargon referring to the author’s intimate relationships, is a speculation and has not been supported by the submitted evidence. Both parties have submitted to the court conclusions made by specialist linguists about the meaning of that word. The author has claimed that it means “a lesbian” and was used in the sense of the worst insulting slang used in women’s prisons. However, the first instance court has determined that the meaning of the word, as claimed by the author, was not widely known to the general public and that there were no grounds to believe that Mr. Milonov knew that specific meaning of the word. The court took into consideration the conclusion by the specialist linguist who testified that the word “ковырьялка” had many meanings and that not all of them were offensive and, according to various published dictionaries, the word had even more non-offensive meanings. The court determined that the defendant had said the word at almost a whisper and without expressing any emotion. His representative argued that he did not even remember saying the word and that, even if he did, he would not ascribe to it the same meaning as the author.

6.3 The State party notes that, in accordance with article 1 of the Convention, discrimination against women means any distinction, exclusion or restriction made on the basis of sex which has the effect or purpose of impairing or nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise by women, irrespective of their marital status, on a basis of equality of men and women, of human rights and fundamental freedoms in the political, economic, social, cultural, civil or any other field. The national courts came to the conclusion that there had been no violation of the author’s personal, nonpecuniary rights, including the right not to be subjected to a discrimination. The State party also notes that the evaluation of evidence and application of national law is within the competence of national authorities, including courts. Therefore, it considers that there has been no violation of the Convention in the present case.

Author’s comments on the State party’s observations on the merits

7.1 In her comments dated 25 November 2016, the author reiterated her position that, at a public human rights event, she had been discriminated against by a representative of the State authorities, who came to the venue and made statements that the author found offensive and humiliating. The author insists that the humiliation of her honour and dignity and the insults made on the basis of her sexual orientation were instances of discrimination against her as a member of a vulnerable group, [LBT] women, and based on her sexual orientation and gender identity and her affiliation with her work relating to advocacy for [LGBT] human rights. The author also states that she was humiliated and insulted due to her non-compliance with the stereotypes regarding the traditional role of women in gender relations and in the family and regarding the social role of [LBT] women. She claims that the words used against her, the level of rhetoric of which exclusively belonged in the criminal environment in detention facilities, were aimed at associating her with the context of that criminal environment in order to marginalize her and create an impression that her lifestyle was criminal.

7.2 The author submits that, even though she appealed to the national authorities for the protection of her rights to equality and non-discrimination, respect for private life, honour and dignity, the authorities dismissed her claims, failing to provide her with effective legal remedy. The author also submits that the principles of nondiscrimination and equality require the establishment of substantive equality, not just legal or formal equality. Substantive equality requires an individual approach to the specific needs of certain vulnerable groups and the elimination of any obstacles that they may encounter. The author notes that she is especially vulnerable to discrimination prohibited under the Convention, given that she is a member of a [LBT] women’s group and a human rights defender. According to the author, discrimination against women on the basis of their sex and gender identity is closely linked with other factors affecting women, such as their social status and sexual orientation. Therefore, the State party must legally recognize and prohibit such intersecting forms of discrimination and their cumulative negative effects on women. The author notes that the Human Rights Committee has ruled that the reference to “sex” in articles 2 (1) and 26 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights includes sexual orientation. In the light of the foregoing, the author contends that she has been a victim of discrimination within the meaning of article 1 of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women.

7.3 The author submits that international bodies regularly express their concern about reports of cases of discrimination and use of hate speech, including against [LBT] women. She refers to the concluding observations of the Committee on the eighth periodic report of the Russian Federation (CEDAW/C/RUS/CO/8), in which the Committee expressed its concern about reports of discrimination, harassment and hate speech, based on negative stereotyping, against [LBT] women and intersex persons and urged the State party to provide the necessary protection from discrimination for such women (ibid., paras. 41–42). The author notes that her particular vulnerability to various forms of discrimination imposes an obligation on the State party not just to refrain from such actions but to carefully investigate reports of discrimination against her as a member of a vulnerable group. The author also makes note of the recommendation of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on measures to combat discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation or gender identity and the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights as steps taken by other international bodies to combat discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity. The author is of the view that the State party failed to provide her with effective legal remedies to account for the fact that the discrimination against her was perpetrated by a person acting as a State official and failed to provide recognition and denouncement of the violation of her rights or compensation or application of any other procedures aimed at restoring her violated rights. The author also notes that Mr. Milonov is currently serving as a member of the State Duma, the lower house of the federal parliament of the Russian Federation.

Issues and proceedings before the Committee

8.5 The Committee notes the author's claims under articles 2 (b), (d) and (e), 5 (a) and 7 (c) of the Convention. According to the author, the State party failed to recognize the discrimination and humiliation that she had suffered due to her sexual orientation and gender identity. The Committee also notes that the State party has submitted that, upon considering the author's lawsuit, the national courts did not find the defendant's words to be insulting or degrading to the honour and dignity of the author, because those words and phrases did not personally characterize the author, did not contain insulting, swear or abusive words and reflected only the subjective opinion of the defendant towards the happenings, which he was free to express under the Constitution of the Russian Federation and international law. It further notes that the State party has pointed out that the national courts concluded that there had been no violation of the author's personal, non-pecuniary rights, including the right not to be subjected to discrimination.

8.6 The Committee notes that, in substance, the author's claims aim at challenging the manner in which the national courts assessed the circumstances of her case and applied national law. The Committee emphasizes that it does not replace the national authorities in the assessment of the facts, nor does it decide on the alleged perpetrator's criminal responsibility. The Committee considers that it is generally for the courts of the States parties to the Convention to evaluate the facts and evidence and the application of national law in a particular case, unless it can be established that such evaluation was biased or based on harmful gender stereotypes that constitute discrimination against women, was clearly arbitrary or amounted to a denial of justice. In that connection, the Committee notes that nothing in the material before it suggests elements likely to demonstrate that the examination by the courts of the author's case, whether regarding her claims of insult or discrimination, suffered from any such defects. The Committee observes that both sides of the lawsuit were able to put forward their specialists' opinions on the meaning of the words used towards the author, some of which had several meanings, including offensive, and that the courts determined that the author's claims of discrimination and humiliation due to her sexual orientation were not corroborated by sufficient evidence. In the light of the foregoing, and in the absence of any other pertinent information on file, the Committee considers that the communication is insufficiently substantiated for the purposes of admissibility and that it is therefore inadmissible under article 4 (2) (c) of the Optional Protocol.

9. The Committee therefore decides that:

(a) The communication is inadmissible under article 4 (2) (c) of the Optional Protocol;

(b) The present decision shall be communicated to the State party and to the author.

Discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity

23. The Committee notes with concern that consensual same-sex relationships are criminalized by article 347-1 of the Criminal Code and that lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons are discriminated against in terms of the enjoyment of their economic, social and cultural rights, particularly in the case of their right to health (art. 2).

24. The Committee recommends that the State party decriminalize consensual homosexual relations and repeal article 347-1 of the Criminal Code, along with all other legal provisions that are discriminatory with regard to sexual orientation or gender identity. It also recommends that the State party combat discrimination and stigmatization of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons by, inter alia, conducting awareness-raising campaigns and that it ensure that no one is discriminated against in terms of the enjoyment of economic, social and cultural rights, in particular with regard to access to health services, on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity.

6 E/C.12/CMR/CO/4
Non-discrimination

21. The Committee notes that various specific acts protect against discrimination in different areas in the State party. At the same time, the Committee is concerned at the remaining gaps in the State party’s anti-discrimination legal framework, including the lack outside the labour market of prohibition of discrimination on grounds such as sexual orientation and gender identity, age and religion, as well as the lack of a legal obligation to ensure accessibility and provide reasonable accommodation for persons with disabilities (art. 2 (2)).

22. The Committee reiterates its recommendation calling on the State party and its self-governing territories to adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation prohibiting differential treatment that is directly or indirectly based on prohibited grounds of discrimination and that affects the enjoyment, on an equal footing, of the Covenant rights, in the absence of a reasonable and objective justification. [...].

Intersex children

64. The Committee is concerned that the definition of “disorders (differences) of sex development” in the State party’s legislation does not contain all elements of the definition of “intersex”. It is also concerned at reports that medically unnecessary procedures continue to be performed on intersex children (arts. 10 and 12).

65. The Committee recommends that, in the implementation of the 2018–2021 National Action Plan on lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, the State party:

(a) Replace in its legislation the concept of “disorders (differences) of sex development” with a definition of intersex person in which differences in sex characteristics include genitals, gonads and chromosome patterns;

(b) Ensure that, in practice, medically unnecessary procedures on the sex characteristics of intersex children are not performed until the children are capable of forming their own views and can give their informed consent;

(c) Train health-care personnel on the health needs and human rights of intersex persons, including their right to autonomy and physical integrity;

(d) Ensure that, in addition to the information material for parents of intersex children to be published by the Danish Health Authority, intersex persons and their families receive adequate counselling and support, including from peers;

(e) Identify and investigate human rights violations against intersex persons in the context of the examination of the living conditions of intersex persons to be conducted in 2020;

(f) Ensure that intersex persons and organizations continue to be consulted and participate in the development of research, legislation and policies that impact on their rights.
10. Please provide information on the measures adopted to combat discrimination and violence against persons because of their sexual orientation or gender identity and on the impact of those measures.

25. The Committee is concerned about the absence of a general law establishing a comprehensive list of prohibited grounds of discrimination. [...] Lastly, it is concerned about the persistence of de facto systemic discrimination and manifestations of violence against some population groups, in particular women, indigenous peoples, people of African descent, Montubio people, rural populations, migrants and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, among others (art. 2 (2)).

26. The Committee recommends that the State party promote the adoption of a general non-discrimination law that reflects all prohibited grounds of discrimination. The Committee encourages the State party to take measures to document formal and substantive discrimination in the State party and to report on the impact of measures taken. Lastly, the Committee encourages the State party to take the necessary steps to give effect to the decision of the Constitutional Court of Ecuador on equal civil marriage rights. [...].
Non-discrimination

10. The Committee is concerned that the Equal Treatment Act only prohibits discrimination on the grounds of religion or views, age, disability and sexual orientation in areas relating to working life and the acquisition of professional qualifications. It regrets the delay in amending the Act to broaden its scope and application to other social sectors. It is also concerned at the insufficient level of financial and human resources allocated to the Gender Equality and Equal Treatment Commissioner to fully carry out the mandate (art. 2 (2)).

11. The Committee recommends that the State party amend without delay the Equal Treatment Act with a view (a) to ensuring that it prohibits all direct, indirect and intersectional forms of discrimination, on the grounds set out in article 2 (2) of the Covenant and in all spheres relevant to economic, social and cultural rights, and (b) to providing effective remedies for victims of discrimination, including through judicial and administrative proceedings. It also recommends that the State party allocate a sufficient level of financial and human resources to the Gender Equality and Equal Treatment Commissioner for the effective functioning of the mandate. In this context, the Committee draws the attention of the State party to its general comment No. 20 (2009) on non-discrimination in economic, social and cultural rights.

59. In accordance with the procedure on follow-up to concluding observations adopted by the Committee, the State party is requested to provide, within 24 months of the adoption of the present concluding observations, information on the implementation of the recommendations contained in paragraphs 11 (amendments to the Equal Treatment Act), 15 (a) and (b) (removal of barriers to acquisition of Estonian citizenship by stateless persons) and 45 (d) (development of a gender-sensitive drug policy) above.
Non-discrimination

18. The Committee notes the absence of comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation in the State party and is concerned that the existing anti-discrimination legislation is not fully in line with article 2 (1) of the Covenant, given the limited prohibited grounds of discrimination, and that the State party has not taken any step to review existing legislation (art. 2 (2)).

19. The Committee recommends that the State party review existing anti-discrimination legislation or adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation with a view to ensuring that such legislation prohibits all direct, indirect and multiple forms of discrimination, on all grounds, including language, colour, social origin, property, sexual orientation, birth or other status, and provides for effective remedies for victims of discrimination. The Committee draws the attention of the State party to its general comment No. 20 (2009) on non-discrimination in economic, social and cultural rights.

8. The Committee is concerned at information that some non-governmental organizations in the State party working for the protection and promotion of human rights, in particular the rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons, have faced difficulty in registering.

9. The Committee recommends that the State party guarantee an enabling environment for non-governmental organizations engaged in the promotion and protection of economic, social and cultural rights, including a functional and accommodating registration procedure.

Non-discrimination

10. The Committee is concerned that neither the Constitution nor the domestic legislation of the State party explicitly prohibits some of the existing grounds of discrimination, such as gender identity and sexual orientation, which contributes to the persistence of discrimination on those grounds in access to employment, health care and education. It is also concerned by the lack of tailored legal protection of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons against attacks and harassment. [...].

11. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation that addresses direct and indirect discrimination and encompasses all the prohibited grounds of discrimination, including sexual orientation and gender identity, as set out in article 2 (2) of the Covenant, taking also into account the Committee's general comment No. 20 (2009) on

Mauritius – Concluding Observations – 65th Session, 5 April 2019, 5th review

Keywords: GI; anti-discrimination legislation, discrimination, GC/GR, legislation, protected grounds

Non-discrimination

15. The Committee is concerned about the shortcomings of the Equal Opportunities Act 2012. The list of prohibited grounds of discrimination in section 2 does not include gender identity, social origin or property. The term “spouse” is defined narrowly, thus excluding persons in unregistered Muslim marriages and de facto unions from protection from discrimination in the enjoyment of their rights under the Covenant. [...].

16. The Committee recommends that the State party revise the Equal Opportunities Act, in particular sections 2 and 19 (2), with a view to ensuring that the Act prohibits all direct, indirect and intersectional forms of discrimination, on any ground, including gender identity, social origin, property and other status, in all spheres relevant to the Covenant rights. The Committee also recommends that the State party provide for effective remedies for victims of discrimination, including through judicial and administrative proceedings. It draws the attention of the State party to its general comment No. 20 (2009) on non-discrimination in economic, social and cultural rights.

Lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons

17. The Committee is concerned that same-sex relations are still criminalized under section 250 of the Criminal Code, a legacy of the colonial era. It is also concerned about the limited protection of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons provided in anti-discrimination provisions, since gender identity is not included as a prohibited ground. It is further concerned about the absence of any legal recognition of same-sex couples, which may restrict the protection of same-sex partners upon separation, or following the illness or death of a partner (arts. 2 (2) and 10).

18. The Committee urges the State party to make the necessary legislative changes with a view to repealing section 250 of the Criminal Code, fully protecting lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons from discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, and providing for legal recognition of same-sex unions or partnerships.

Please describe the strategy adopted to combat stigma that prevent these categories of the population from enjoying their right to health on an equal basis with the rest of the population (persons in conflict with the law). Please provide explanations of the causes of the low antiretroviral treatment coverage among children, which results in this category of the population being left behind.

HIV/AIDS

39. While noting the efforts made by the State party to reduce the prevalence rate of HIV/AIDS among the population, the Committee notes with concern that it remains significantly higher than the national average among sex workers, men who have sexual relations with men, drug users and persons in detention. The Committee is also concerned about figures indicating a low antiretroviral treatment coverage among children, which results in this category of the population being left behind (art. 12).

40. In view of the fact that the groups that have a higher prevalence of HIV and AIDS tend to form part of the category of persons who are “in conflict with the law”, the Committee encourages the State party to adopt a national strategy to combat the stigma that prevent these categories of the population from enjoying their right to health on an equal basis with the rest of the population. In this regard, the Committee requests the State party to consider the possibility of decriminalizing:

(a) Same-sex relations;

(b) Drug use.

Discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity

14. The Committee is concerned about discrimination based on gender identity and sexual orientation and regrets that, in the absence of the recognition of same-sex marriage, there exists no legal institution, such as registered partnerships or civil unions, that provides protection equivalent to marriage to those in same-sex relationships (art. 2 (2)).

15. The Committee recommends that the State party develop and implement dedicated legal provisions, policies and programmes to ensure protection from discrimination based on gender identity and sexual orientation. Furthermore, it recommends that the State party initiate societal awareness-raising and consultations to overcome discrimination based on sexual orientation, and develop a legal institution, such as registered partnerships or civil unions, that provides protection equivalent to marriage to those in same-sex relationships.
Non-discrimination (art. 2 (2))

9. Please provide information on the impact of specific measures taken to combat discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation or gender identity and to address gaps in the law in that respect.

Right to physical and mental health (art. 12)

29. Please provide statistical data on the number of surgical operations conducted on intersex infants and children. Please indicate the measures taken to ensure the protection of the physical and mental integrity, autonomy and freedom of choice of intersex persons.

Non-discrimination

20. The Committee takes note of the explanations provided by the State party concerning progress made in respect of policies and strategies to combat discrimination. Nevertheless, it regrets that the lack of a general anti-discrimination law continues to make it difficult for victims to access effective remedies and adequate protection against all prohibited grounds for, and multiple forms of, discrimination. The Committee also remains concerned about the discrimination that, in practice, some individuals and groups continue to experience, such as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, persons with disabilities, migrants, and persons living in poverty (art. 2).

21. The Committee reminds the State party of the recommendations in its previous concluding observations (para. 7) and recommends that it pass a general anti-discrimination law, enforceable uniformly throughout the Confederation, that: (a) covers all prohibited grounds of discrimination, including discrimination based on economic and social status and sexual identity; (b) defines multiple discrimination; (c) prohibits direct and indirect discrimination; and (d) provides judicial or administrative remedies for victims, so that they are able to enjoy effective protection. Furthermore, the Committee recommends that the State party continue its efforts to prevent and combat persistent discrimination against certain individuals and groups, including through awareness-raising campaigns, in order to ensure their full enjoyment of the rights recognized under the Covenant. In this connection, the Committee draws the attention of the State party to its general comment No. 20 (2009) on non-discrimination in economic, social and cultural rights.

Discrimination and harassment in the workplace

34. The Committee notes with concern reports that cases of wrongful dismissal during pregnancy and cases of sexual harassment and discrimination linked to sexual orientation and gender identity continue to occur and that existing mechanisms do not guarantee effective protection from such acts (arts. 7 and 10).

35. [...]. The Committee recommends that the State party implement effective measures to protect victims of wrongful dismissal, sexual harassment and discrimination linked to sexual orientation and gender identity, including through the reversal of the burden of proof in legal proceedings.

Mental health

48. The Committee remains concerned that, despite the measures taken, the suicide rate continues to be high in the State party, in particular among lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex youth (art. 12).

49. The Committee recommends that the State party implement the recommendations set out in the Swiss Health
Observatory report entitled "Mental Health in Switzerland" and take the necessary measures to ensure the availability and accessibility of appropriate mental health services throughout the State party. The Committee further recommends that the State party continue its efforts to prevent suicide, including through the mobilization of the necessary resources.

Combating discrimination

13. The Committee welcomes the criminalization of acts of “discrimination based on sexual orientation”, including in employment. It also notes the measures to eliminate discrimination against persons with disabilities. The Committee reiterates its concern that the State party has not yet adopted a general law on equality and non-discrimination (see CCPR/C/AGO/CO/1, para. 8). It is also concerned at reports that individuals belonging to certain groups face stigmatization and de facto discrimination, in particular indigenous peoples, foreign nationals, persons living with HIV/AIDS, persons with disabilities, persons with albinism and LGBT persons. It further regrets the lack of information on the number of complaints of cases of discrimination and their outcomes (arts. 2 and 26).

14. The State party should take necessary measures to:

(a) Enact comprehensive legislation providing full and effective protection against discrimination in all spheres and containing a comprehensive list of prohibited grounds of discrimination;

(b) Effectively protect indigenous peoples, foreign nationals, persons living with HIV/AIDS, persons with disabilities, persons with albinism and LGBT persons and safeguard their fundamental rights, while ensuring that all cases of discrimination are duly addressed.

(c) Carry out broad education and awareness-raising campaigns that promote equality, tolerance and respect for diversity;

(d) Ratify the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination.

Keywords: SM; discrimination

Non-discrimination and the rights of persons belonging to ethnic, religious, linguistic or sexual minorities

15. While welcoming the measures taken by the State party to combat all forms of discrimination, the Committee expresses its concern about the persistence of discriminatory acts against persons belonging to ethnic, religious, linguistic or sexual minorities. It notes with concern the persistence of discriminatory acts such as ethnic profiling for identity checks by the police and obstacles to access to housing or the enjoyment of social benefits, owing to discrimination based on language, without the provision of effective remedies. It also notes that data disaggregated by ethnicity, sex and age are missing at various levels and that no national action plan against racism has yet been adopted (arts. 2, 18, 20 and 24–27).

16. The State party should:

(a) Amend its legislation by expressly prohibiting ethnic profiling and ensure the effective implementation and monitoring of the prohibition;

(b) Provide an effective remedy for complaints of discrimination based on language;

(c) Ensure that data disaggregated by ethnicity, sex and age are collected at different levels and in different sectors, in accordance with the guidance for human rights indicators issued by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights;

(d) Expedite the adoption of a national action plan against racism and ensure its implementation and monitoring.

21. The Committee notes with concern that children born with intersex traits are sometimes subjected to invasive and irreversible medical procedures aimed at assigning them with a sex, that such actions are often based on a stereotyped vision of gender roles and that they are carried out before the persons in question are of an age to give their free and informed consent (arts. 3, 7, 9, 17, 24 and 26).

22. The State party should take the necessary measures to end the performance of irreversible medical acts, especially surgical operations, on intersex children who are not yet capable of giving their free and informed consent, except in cases where such interventions are absolutely necessary for medical reasons.

16. While welcoming the measures taken to address racism, hate speech and other forms of intolerance, including the annual Concept for Combating Extremism and Prejudiced Hatred and the Campaign against Racism project and Hate Free media campaign, the Committee is concerned about the reported high level of hate speech against Roma, asylum seekers, refugees and migrants, Muslims, Jews and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, including by politicians and high-level officials and in the media and online, and attacks motivated by hatred. The Committee is particularly concerned that senior officials in the State party reportedly encourage the public perception of migration as a threat to public security and that the media has been used to instil fear of migrants and asylum seekers and to strengthen stereotypical prejudices based on ethnicity or religion (arts. 2, 7, 18, 20 and 26).

17. The State party should redouble its efforts, through both law enforcement and awareness-raising activities, to combat racial discrimination, hate speech and incitement to discrimination or violence on racial, ethnic or religious grounds, in accordance with articles 19 and 20 of the Covenant and the Committee's general comment No. 34 (2011) on the freedoms of opinion and expression. It should, inter alia:

(a) Take effective measures to prevent hate speech, particularly by politicians and high-level public officials, firmly and publicly condemn such speech and intensify efforts aimed at addressing online hate speech;

Combating discrimination

24. The Committee notes the legislative framework, including constitutional provisions that prohibit discrimination. Nevertheless, it regrets the absence of legislation defining and prohibiting direct and indirect discrimination, and covering all prohibited grounds for discrimination enumerated in articles 2 and 26 of the Covenant, in particular sexual orientation, gender identity and disability. It further regrets the lack of information regarding a legislative framework offering effective remedies for victims of discrimination. The Committee is concerned about the information received regarding acts of discrimination and stigmatization against lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons and persons living with HIV/AIDS, and about the lack of action taken to ensure that persons with disabilities are not discriminated against in practice (arts. 2 and 26).

25. The State party should take the necessary measures to:

(a) Enact comprehensive legislation providing full and effective protection against multiple discrimination, both direct and indirect, in all spheres and on all grounds enumerated in the Covenant;

(b) Provide access to effective and appropriate remedies for all victims of discrimination;

(c) Effectively protect lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, persons living with HIV/AIDS and persons with disabilities, and safeguard their fundamental rights, while ensuring that all cases of discrimination are duly addressed;

C. Principal matters of concern and recommendations

12. The Committee is concerned that the current legal framework does not provide comprehensive protection against hate speech and hate crimes due to, inter alia, the light penalties and the high threshold for the offence of incitement to hatred, violence or discrimination under article 151 of the Criminal Code, which requires “danger to the life, health or property” of the victim; the absence of gender identity among the prohibited grounds for offences against equality in articles 151 and 152 of the Code; and the recognition of hate motives, including on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, as aggravating circumstances for all offences. The Committee notes the plans to amend article 151 of the Criminal Code and to recognize hate motives as aggravating circumstances. […]

13. […] the Committee regrets the lack of specific data on the number of complaints regarding hate speech and hate crimes, including on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, and on their effective investigation and prosecution (arts. 2, 19, 20 and 26).

14. The State party should ensure effective protection against hate speech and hate crimes, both in law and in practice, in accordance with articles 19 and 20 of the Covenant and the Committee’s general comment No. 34 (2011) on freedoms of opinion and expression, including by:

(a) Revising the penalties and the threshold for the offence of incitement to hatred, violence or discrimination under article 151 of the Criminal Code;
(b) Including gender identity among the prohibited grounds for hatred-motivated offences provided for in articles 151 and 152 of the Criminal Code;

(c) Recognizing hate motives, including on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, as aggravating circumstances for all offences;

(d) Prohibiting by law the public denial, justification or condoning of crimes of genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes or hate propaganda that is racist or otherwise incites discrimination;

(e) Conducting regular awareness-raising activities among the public at large aimed at promoting mutual tolerance, respect for diversity and countering hatred; ensuring continuous training on hate crimes for law enforcement officials, border guards, prosecutors and judges; and expanding the number of web constables, as planned;

(f) Investigating hate crimes effectively, prosecuting suspected perpetrators where appropriate and, if they are convicted, punishing them with appropriate sanctions; and providing victims with adequate remedies.

(c) efforts to adopt national binding guidelines for medical professionals on the treatment of intersex individuals; and

(d) measures to facilitate effective access to justice and redress for individuals who have been subjected to such surgeries or other medical interventions.

7. Please report on the anti-discrimination legal framework and clarify whether: (a) it prohibits discrimination, including direct, indirect and intersecting forms of discrimination, on all the grounds set forth in the Covenant, including colour, language, political or other opinion, national or social origin (including caste), property, sexual orientation, gender identity and other status; and (b) it provides for effective judicial and administrative remedies.

9. Please report on measures taken to: (a) combat societal discrimination and violence, including abuses by the police, against lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons; and (b) fully implement the 2014 Supreme Court judgment in National Legal Services Authority v. Union of India and others, in which the rights of transgender persons were recognized. Please clarify whether revisions are being considered to the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Bill, which was passed by the Lok Sabha (lower house of Parliament) on 17 December 2018, with a view to bringing it into compliance with the Covenant, including as regards mandatory sex reassignment surgery for transgender people and the light sentences imposed for serious offences against transgender people.
Non-discrimination and equality between men and women (arts. 2, 3, 25 and 26)

7. In addition to the Constitutional provisions on discrimination, please indicate whether specific laws or other measures that deal with discrimination exist in the domestic system and if so please provide details. Please clarify whether domestic law: (a) provides a definition of discrimination that encompasses all prohibited grounds of discrimination including race, color, property, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity, language, health, social and other status; (b) covers direct, indirect and intersecting forms of discrimination; and (c) provides for effective judicial and administrative remedies. Describe the measures taken to combat and prevent acts of discrimination, stigmatization and violence specifically against elderly persons, sex workers, persons with HIV/AIDS and LGBTI persons. In this regard and in view of paragraph 13 of the previous concluding observations, please provide clarification on the current legal status of sexual acts between consenting adults of the same sex. [...].
4. Please provide information on steps taken to review Act No. 2018-023 of 18 January 2018 criminalizing discrimination, which has drawn criticism from a number of special rapporteurs of the Human Rights Council, and to ensure that it: (a) clearly defines and criminalizes direct and indirect discrimination; (b) covers all grounds for discrimination set out in the Covenant, including race, social origin, sexual orientation and gender identity; and (c) provides effective remedies for victims. Please provide information on the effective implementation of the provisions of the legislative texts referred to in paragraphs 87 to 89 of the State party’s report. In this respect, please provide data on the number of complaints of discrimination filed and registered and the number of prosecutions conducted and convictions and sentences handed down in that connection.

6. Please indicate whether the State party intends to decriminalize the sexual practices punishable under section 308 of the Criminal Code. Please provide information on measures taken to protect the privacy and freedom of persons belonging to sexual minorities.

12. The Committee notes the constitutional provisions prohibiting discrimination, as well as the adoption of Act No. 2018-023 of 18 January 2018 on the criminalization of discrimination. It is, however, concerned at the lack of a clear definition and criminalization of direct and indirect discrimination that covers all the grounds enumerated in the Covenant, including sexual orientation and gender identity. The Committee is concerned that the lack of legal clarity may lead to many of the Act’s provisions being interpreted in such a way as to restrict the enjoyment of some rights and freedoms and perpetuate discriminatory practices. The Committee is further concerned at acts of discrimination and stigmatization against specific minorities on account of their sexual orientation or gender identity and regrets that sexual activity between consenting adults of the same sex remains an offence that carries the death penalty under article 308 of the Criminal Code (arts. 2, 6, 19, 20 and 26).

13. The State party should amend Act No. 2018-023 to bring it fully into line with the Covenant by incorporating a definition of discrimination, both direct and indirect, including in the private sphere, that contains an exhaustive list of the grounds for discrimination enumerated in the Covenant and covers sexual orientation and gender identity. It should also ensure that the Act provides sufficient guarantees of effective civil and administrative remedies for any type of discrimination. Moreover, it should repeal article 308 of the Criminal Code in order to decriminalize sexual relations between consenting adults of the same sex and release anyone currently detained under this article.
Equality and non-discrimination (arts. 2, 3, 25 and 26)

8. In the light of the Committee’s previous concluding observations (para. 21), please provide information on the measures, including awareness-raising campaigns, taken to prevent and to provide protection from violence and discrimination based on sexual orientation or gender identity. Please include information on any relevant court decisions concerning this matter. Please also include information on the number of complaints received regarding violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender persons; the investigations carried out in such instances and their results, including the sentences handed down to the perpetrators; and the remedies provided to the victims.

Discrimination and violence based on sexual orientation and gender identity

12. The Committee is concerned about the discrimination and the high level of violence, including a large number of homicides, that are motivated by the victim’s sexual orientation or gender identity and regrets that consolidated data on investigations and prosecutions initiated, convictions and punishments handed down and reparations granted in such cases are not available. In spite of the explanations provided by the State party’s delegation, the Committee is concerned about reports of irreversible and invasive medical procedures being performed on intersex children (arts. 2, 6, 7, 17 and 26).

13. The State party should adopt the investigation protocols necessary to ensure that: (a) crimes motivated by the victim’s sexual orientation or gender identity are systematically registered and investigated from a gender perspective; (b) the perpetrators of such crimes are investigated, prosecuted and punished appropriately; and (c) victims have access to safe complaint mechanisms, due support and assistance, adequate protection and comprehensive redress. The State party should redouble its efforts to combat stereotypes and prejudice against lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons and to guarantee that acts of discrimination and violence directed against them are prevented. It should also take steps to stop irreversible medical treatments being performed, in particular surgical procedures performed on intersex children who do not yet have the capacity to give fully informed and free consent, except when these procedures are absolutely necessary from the medical point of view.

18. While taking note of the legislative framework, including constitutional provisions that prohibit discrimination, the Committee nevertheless regrets the absence of legislation that would thoroughly define and criminalize direct and indirect discrimination and would cover, inter alia, discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity and disability. The Committee further regrets the characterization of consensual sexual activities between adults of the same sex as “unnatural” acts under article 282 of the Criminal Code (arts. 2, 17 and 26).

19. The State party should take appropriate steps to: (a) enact comprehensive legislation providing full and effective protection against discrimination in all spheres and containing an exhaustive list of prohibited grounds of discrimination, including sexual orientation and gender identity; and (b) amend article 282 of the Criminal Code in order to decriminalize consensual sexual relations between adults of the same sex.

Please comment on allegations that, since the adoption of the Same Sex Marriage (Prohibition) Act, lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons have been subject to increased harassment, threats and mob violence. Please comment on allegations of torture, sexual violence, arbitrary detention and extortion committed by law enforcement agents on lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons, based on their perceived sexual orientation or gender identity.

Nigeria – Concluding Observations – 126th Session, 29 August 2019, 2nd review

Keywords: SOGI; anti-discrimination legislation, discrimination, legislation, protected grounds

Non-discrimination and gender equality

16. The Committee is concerned about the lack of comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation and the absence of a definition of discrimination in the State party’s legislation. The Committee notes with concern that the gender and equal opportunities bill has not yet been adopted and that discrimination against women in access to justice, education, employment and enjoyment of land and property rights persists both in law and in practice. The Committee is particularly concerned about legal provisions and practices that discriminate against women, including with regard to the transmission of nationality, and polygamy, repudiation, adultery and inheritance rights in the states that apply sharia law, and discriminatory traditional practices. The Committee regrets that women remain underrepresented in the public and private sectors, particularly in decision-making positions (arts. 2, 3, 14, 25 and 26).

17. The State party should adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation that: (a) includes a comprehensive list of prohibited grounds of discrimination, including race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity and other status; (b) covers direct, indirect and intersecting forms of discrimination; and (c) provides for effective remedies, including judicial remedies. […]

Discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity

18. The Committee is concerned that the Criminal Code criminalizes consensual same-sex sexual activity and that the Same-Sex Marriage (Prohibition) Act provides for 14 years’ imprisonment for a person who enters into a same-sex union and 10 years’ imprisonment for anyone who supports, meets with or forms a group advocating for the human rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons. The Committee is further concerned about reports that, since the adoption of the Act, harassment and violence against such persons has increased, as well as the number of arrests and the detention of young people based on their actual or perceived sexual orientation and gender identity (arts. 2, 6, 7 and 26).

19. The State party should decriminalize consensual same-sex relationships between consenting adults and ensure that arrest, prosecution and punishment based on actual or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity or advocacy of the rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons are prohibited. It should consider repealing the Same Sex Marriage (Prohibition) Act and reviewing all other relevant legislation. Pending such revisions, those measures should not be employed. The State party should provide effective protection to lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons and ensure the investigation, prosecution and punishment of any act of violence motivated by the victim's sexual orientation or gender identity. The State party should take efforts to combat stereotypes and prejudice against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons, including by launching a sensitization campaign aimed at the general public and providing appropriate training to public officials so as to put an end to the social stigmatization of such persons.
Non-discrimination (arts. 2, 3 and 25 to 27)

7. Further to the previous concluding observations (para. 9), please provide information on legislative and other measures taken to combat discrimination, including programmes to eliminate stereotyping and discrimination. Please also describe actions taken to promote equal opportunities and access to services for women, persons with disabilities, indigenous persons, persons of African descent, stateless persons, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, sex workers and persons living with HIV/AIDS throughout the State party and to combat violence against such persons. Please comment in particular on the progress made in adopting legislation to counter all forms of discrimination and in establishing mechanisms to monitor and protect against discrimination. Please also provide information on actions taken with regard to paragraph 11 of the previous concluding observations, especially measures to eliminate discrimination against persons with disabilities in the Electoral Code.

Violence against women, including domestic violence (arts. 6, 7, 14 and 26)

9. [...]. Please also include information on actions taken to prevent, punish and criminalize violence and discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons.

Right to life and prohibition of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment (arts. 3, 6, 7, 9 and 14)

10. In the light of the previous concluding observations (para. 13), please describe any reforms made to legislation on abortion, including further exceptions to the ban on abortion. Please provide information on the measures adopted to ensure that reproductive health services are accessible to all women, adolescents and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons in every region of the country and on the implementation of education and awareness programmes, particularly for adolescents, on the use of contraceptives and on sexual and reproductive health rights. Please provide information on pregnancy and maternal mortality rates among adolescents.
African descent, indigenous peoples, persons with disabilities, sex workers, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, and persons infected with HIV, including by expanding training programmes for law enforcement and security officers and awareness-raising campaigns promoting tolerance and respect for diversity;

(c) Adopt and implement effective policies for the protection of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons and sex workers, and ensure that cases of discrimination and violence committed by individuals or State agents against persons belonging to these groups are systematically investigated, that the persons responsible are punished with appropriate penalties and that the victims receive full reparation.

27. The State party should:

(d) Ensure that the rights of persons deprived of their liberty who are particularly vulnerable, such as women and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, and especially transgender persons, are respected, in accordance with international standards and without discrimination of any kind, including by providing regular and ongoing training for the staff of all places of deprivation of liberty.

5. Keywords: SOGI; LGBT; anti-discrimination legislation, criminalization (decriminalization), discrimination, education, harassment, legislation, measures, policy, protected grounds, remedy

Non-discrimination and the rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons

16. The Committee is concerned at the absence of comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation in the State party. The Committee is also concerned that consensual same-sex relationships remain criminalized in the State party and that the law, even if not enforced, may promote homophobic attitudes and discourage lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons from submitting complaints relating to discrimination, threats and harassment. It is especially concerned because lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons reportedly continue to be subjected to such treatment (arts. 2, 9, 17 and 26).

17. The State party, in addition to carrying out a review of the Constitution as indicated above, should ensure that its anti-discrimination legislation:

(a) Provides for full and effective protection against discrimination in all spheres, including the private sphere, and prohibits direct, indirect and multiple discrimination;

(b) Contains a comprehensive list of grounds for discrimination in line with the Covenant, including sexual orientation and gender identity;

(c) Provides for access to effective and appropriate remedies for victims of discrimination.

It should adopt policies tackling discrimination, decriminalize same-sex relationships between consenting adults and take measures, including policy and public education initiatives, to change societal perceptions of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons and to protect them from threats and harassment.

Please provide statistical data on the number of asylum applications that are based on an individual’s belonging to a sexual minority and on the number of such applications that are rejected.

Non-discrimination

10. While noting the existence of article 3 of Act No. 81-77 of 10 December 1981 on the suppression of discriminatory acts, the Committee notes that this Act covers only racial, ethnic and religious discrimination, without regard to both direct and indirect discrimination. The Committee notes with concern the absence of complaints registered in the State party of acts of discrimination, despite the allegations of discriminatory acts brought before the Committee, in particular against persons with albinism, persons belonging to sexual or gender minorities and women (arts. 2, 7, 24, 25 and 26).

11. The State party should adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation to ensure that its legal framework:

(b) Contains a comprehensive list of grounds of discrimination, including colour, language, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, disability, sexual orientation and gender identity or other status; [...].

Non-discrimination of persons on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity

14. The Committee is concerned about hate speech and violence in the media, including by public figures, against persons belonging to sexual or gender minorities and some defenders of their rights. It is also concerned about allegations of arbitrary arrests, violations of the right to privacy, harassment and violence, including by law enforcement officials. In this connection, the Committee is concerned about the maintenance and application of the third paragraph of article 319 of the Criminal Code, which criminalizes sexual acts between consenting adults of the same sex (arts. 2, 9, 17, 19, 21, 22 and 26).

15. The State party should:

(a) Take concrete and urgent measures to address the current campaign to incite hatred against persons on the basis of their sexual orientation and against defenders of their rights, including partner organizations involved in the fight against HIV/AIDS;

(b) Repeal the third paragraph of Article 319 of the Criminal Code, which criminalizes sexual acts between consenting adults of the same sex, with a view to reducing the stigmatization of the persons concerned;

(c) Issue clear instructions to law enforcement officials to stop any violence or arbitrary arrest against persons on the basis of their real or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity; [...].
Non-discrimination (arts. 2, 20 and 26)

Please also indicate whether there are any initiatives to revise the provisions of the Criminal Code on hate crimes in order to cover all the prohibited grounds of discrimination under article 2 of the Covenant.

Please also provide information on measures taken to facilitate effective access to justice and redress, including rehabilitation, for those who have been subjected to such surgical procedures or other medical treatment without their consent.
Non-discrimination (arts. 2 and 26)

6. Please clarify whether national legislation, including the Constitution, explicitly prohibits discrimination on all the grounds prohibited under the Covenant, including colour, opinion, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity and other status, and report on any plans to adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation that, inter alia, addresses discrimination in the private sphere; prohibits all direct, indirect and multiple forms of discrimination; contains a comprehensive list of prohibited grounds for discrimination, in accordance with the Covenant; and provides for access to effective remedies in judicial and administrative proceedings for victims of discrimination.

Anti-discrimination framework

13. While noting that article 17 of the Constitution and other legislative acts guarantee equality before the law and the rights of every person without discrimination on several grounds, the Committee is concerned that the existing legal framework does not afford comprehensive protection against discrimination on all the grounds prohibited under the Covenant and regrets the lack of information, inter alia on the prohibition of discrimination in the private sphere and on effective remedies for all forms of discrimination. The Committee notes that a working group was set up in 2018 to prepare a bill on the prohibition of discrimination and regrets that no further details have been provided regarding the bill and the timeline for its adoption (arts. 2 and 26).

14. The State party should take all the measures necessary, including by adopting a comprehensive anti-discrimination law, to ensuring that its legal framework provides adequate and effective substantive and procedural protection against all forms of direct, indirect and multiple discrimination, including in the private sphere, on all the prohibited grounds under the Covenant, including colour, opinion, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity and other status, as well as access to effective and appropriate remedies for victims of discrimination.

Discrimination and violence on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity

15. The Committee is concerned about reports of deep-rooted discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals, including homophobic and transphobic rhetoric by public officials, violence and harassment, including arbitrary arrest, detention and extortion by law enforcement officials. The Committee is concerned about reports, although they are denied by the State party, that individuals suspected of being lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender following investigative operations reportedly aimed at protecting them and at preventing the transmission of sexually transmitted infections, including HIV/AIDS.
the “moral and ethical norms of relationships among people in the country” (arts. 2, 7, 9, 17 and 26).

16. The State party should: (a) provide effective protection against all forms of discrimination and violence on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, both in law and in practice, and ensure that no such discrimination or violence is tolerated and that such conduct is properly addressed and remedied; (b) combat homophobic and transphobic discourse, including by providing appropriate training to law enforcement and other officials on combating discriminatory attitudes towards lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals and by conducting similar awareness-raising activities aimed at the general public; and (c) investigate law enforcement practices to ensure that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals are not registered and end any such practices that unduly interfere with their rights, including to privacy and to liberty and security.
Non-discrimination and prohibition of advocacy of national, racial or religious hatred (arts. 2, 3, 20 and 26)

4. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 8) and the State party’s eighth periodic report (CCPR/C/UKR/8, paras. 5–7 and 11), please report on measures taken to prevent and combat all forms of discrimination on all the grounds prohibited under the Covenant. In this respect, please also indicate the extent to which the law on principles for preventing and combating discrimination and any other relevant draft legislative amendments under consideration: (a) explicitly include sexual orientation and gender identity among the protected grounds; (b) set out clearly the sharing (or shifting) of burden of proof in discrimination cases; and (c) provide for accessible and effective remedies in judicial and administrative proceedings for victims of discrimination.

6. In connection with the previous concluding observations (para. 10) and the Committee's evaluation of the State party’s follow-up information (see CCPR/C/121/2), please comment on reports of discrimination, hate speech and calls to violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals on social media and of attacks motivated by a person’s sexual orientation or gender identity, such as that perpetrated on 19 June 2019 in Kyiv, and respond to concerns about the lack of effective investigation and sanctioning of such conduct, particularly of homophobic and transphobic violence owing, inter alia, to the inaction of the police or failure to properly classify such incidents as hate crimes. Please provide relevant statistics on homophobic and transphobic hate speech and violence since 2014. Please also clarify whether the State party plans to include sexual orientation and gender identity among the prohibited grounds for the hate-motivated offences set out in article 161 of the Criminal Code and to recognize hate motives on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity as aggravating circumstances for all offences.

Please also respond to alleged violations of the right to peaceful assembly, including violations perpetrated by extreme right-wing groups or individuals allegedly affiliated with them, and report on measures taken to investigate them and bring perpetrators to justice, including for: (a) attacks on women's marches in Kyiv, Lviv and Uzhhorod on 8 March 2018; (b) attacks against political figures and activists and property degradation, including by extreme right-wing groups, committed in 2018 and ahead of the 2019 elections; and (c) frequent attacks against participants in, or violent disruption of, peaceful assemblies organized by Roma and lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons.

Non-discrimination (arts. 2 and 26)

4. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 6), please report on measures taken to ensure that the legal framework: (a) provides full and effective protection against direct, indirect and multiple discrimination in all spheres, including in the private sphere, and on all the grounds prohibited under the Covenant, including colour, political or other opinion, national origin, property, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity and other status; and (b) provides for effective remedies in judicial and administrative proceedings for victims of discrimination. In this respect, please clarify if there are any plans to adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation to address the above requirements.

5. With reference to the information in paragraph 69 of the State party's report (CCPR/C/UZB/5), please report on the measures taken: (a) to raise awareness about the principles of universality of human rights and of non-discrimination among the population at large; and (b) to implement the Committee’s long-standing recommendation to decriminalize consensual sexual activities between adult males (CCPR/C/UZB/CO/3, para. 22 and CCPR/C/UZB/CO/4, para. 7). Please respond to reports of social stigmatization, harassment, violence and discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender individuals by both State officials and private individuals, including extortion and arbitrary arrest and detention by law enforcement officials. Please clarify the procedure for legal recognition of gender reassignment and comment on reports that it requires a minimum of one month’s hospitalization in a psychiatric clinic.
Non-discrimination and gender equality (arts. 2, 3, 20 and 26)

3. With reference to paragraphs 36–47 of the State party’s report, please indicate whether any steps have been taken to adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation that, inter alia, (a) addresses discrimination in the private sphere; (b) prohibits all direct and indirect discrimination and multiple forms of discrimination; (c) contains a comprehensive list of prohibited grounds for discrimination, including race, colour, sex, political or other opinion, property, birth, sexual orientation, gender identity, health and other status; and (d) provides for effective remedies in judicial and administrative proceedings. [...]. Please report on the steps taken towards legal recognition of same-sex couples and provide information on existing or planned legal frameworks pertaining to the rights of transgender persons that ensure they are not subject to discrimination.

Non-discrimination framework

13. The Committee is concerned that the current legal framework does not afford comprehensive protection against discrimination on all the grounds prohibited under the Covenant (arts. 2 and 26).

14. The State party should consider adopting a comprehensive anti-discrimination law, to ensure that its legal framework provides for full and effective protection against all forms of discrimination in all spheres, and a comprehensive list of grounds for discrimination, including race, colour, national or social origin, birth, disability, age, sexual orientation and gender identity and any other status. It should also ensure that reported acts of discrimination are effectively addressed and victims are provided with full reparation.

Sexual orientation, gender identity, intersex status and persons with HIV

15. The Committee welcomes the efforts made by the State party to improve the situation of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, including by eliminating the prohibition on same-sex marriage and providing for legal gender recognition. It takes note of the ongoing drafting of a law regarding transgender persons. Nevertheless, it is concerned that persons continue to face discrimination on the grounds of their sexual orientation and gender identity. It is also concerned by the absence of legal recognition and protection of same-sex couples, and that infants and children under the age of 9, born with intersex variations, may undergo irreversible medical interventions for purposes of gender assignment that are performed before the children concerned are able to provide free and informed consent. The Committee is further concerned that people living with HIV continue to face discrimination and stigmatization (arts. 2–3, 7, 9, 17, 24 and 26).

16. The State party should:

(a) Intensify its efforts to eradicate all forms of discrimination and violence against and social stigmatization of persons based on their sexual orientation, gender identity, or HIV status, and provide access to effective remedies for victims of such acts;

(b) Establish a procedure for legal gender recognition without a medical requirement that is compatible with the Covenant;

(c) Consider providing legal recognition of and protection for same-sex couples;

(d) Take measures to end irreversible medical treatment of intersex children who are not yet able to provide fully informed and free consent, unless such procedures constitute an absolute medical necessity.

The Committee welcomes the adoption of the Act 34/2014 regulating civil partnerships and amending the Marriage Act of 1995, which provides the same legal basis for same-sex civil partnerships as for marriages and legalises adoption for the same-sex civil partnerships. However, it notes the following with concern:

(b) The persistence of discriminatory provisions in practice in certain areas, in relation with the enjoyment of rights in favour of marriage in comparison with civil unions;

Women facing multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination

43. The Committee welcomes the criminalization of acts of discrimination based on sexual orientation, including in employment, through the adoption of the new Penal Code. It takes note of the information provided by the State party during the interactive dialogue that General Labour Act No. 7/15 promotes the inclusion of persons with disabilities. It is concerned, however, that:

(a) Rural women and girls and women and girls with disabilities, with albinism, living with HIV/AIDS and in prostitution, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons face multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination, restricting in particular their access to health services, employment, education, housing and justice and their participation in public and political life;

(b) There are no policies addressing multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination, such as policies promoting the rights of women and girls with disabilities.

44. The Committee recommends that the State party, in line with general recommendation No. 18 (1991) on disabled women:

(a) Undertake awareness-raising activities to change negative attitudes towards women and girls with disabilities, with albinism, living with HIV/AIDS and in prostitution, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons, ensuring that strict penalties are imposed on the perpetrators of violations against them;

(b) Develop, and allocate adequate human, technical and financial resources for the adoption and implementation of a strategy that promotes access for women and girls with disabilities to inclusive and appropriate health services, employment, education, housing and justice and the participation of those women and girls in public and political life, including by granting them legal capacity.
Discriminatory gender stereotypes

6. [...] Please also indicate any steps taken to eliminate the stigmatization of and discrimination against certain minority or disadvantaged groups, including migrant women, women who are internally displaced, women living with HIV/AIDS and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons.

Visibility of the Convention, the Optional Protocol thereto and the Committee's general recommendations

11. The Committee welcomes the various educational and awareness-raising programmes on women's rights. It is concerned, however, about the general lack of awareness of the Convention and the Optional Protocol thereto in the State party, in particular among women and government and law enforcement officials.

12. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Strengthen the capacity of the judiciary, legal professionals, civil servants and law enforcement officials on the Convention and the Committee's jurisprudence with a view to ensuring a thorough understanding of the concept of the substantive equality of women and men, in line with the Convention, and to enabling them to apply the Convention to laws and policies on gender equality and the advancement of women;

(b) Intensify efforts to enhance awareness among women, including migrant women, older women, women with disabilities and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, of their rights under the Convention and the remedies available to them to claim violations of those rights and ensure that information on the Convention, the Optional Protocol thereto and the Committee's general recommendations is provided to all women.

Lesbian, bisexual and transgender women

46. The Committee is concerned about the criminalization of same-sex relations between consenting adults, the absence of legislation prohibiting discrimination on all grounds prohibited under the Convention and the reports of discrimination and stigma against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.

47. The Committee recommends that the State party enact comprehensive antidiscrimination legislation that prohibits all forms of discrimination and ensure equal rights and opportunities for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, including through the decriminalization of same-sex relations between consenting adults. The Committee also recommends that the State party ensure access for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women to, inter alia, employment, health care and social services without discrimination or stigma.
Marriage and family relations

21. Please provide information on the judgment rendered by the Constitutional Court in 2017 repealing the legal provisions that denied same-sex couples the right to marry and on progress made regarding its implementation. Please elaborate on efforts to remove the remaining differential provisions for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons living in registered partnerships, denying them the same rights afforded to other couples, including in relation to childcare allowances for mothers, maintenance and distribution of property and assets upon dissolution of the relationship (paras. 218 and 330).

Constitutional framework and definition of discrimination against women

10. Cognizant of the complex federal structure in the State party, the Committee takes note of the positive efforts made to strengthen the coordination of the implementation of the Convention, in particular at the Länder and municipal levels. Nevertheless, the Committee remains concerned that, in areas under the exclusive responsibility of the Länder, the Convention is not applied consistently. It takes note of the information provided by the delegation during the dialogue, that the European Convention on Human Rights has been implemented as directly applicable constitutional law in the State party and that the parliament has decided that all other human rights treaties should be implemented by legislation. The Committee notes the complexity of the anti-discrimination legislation and commends the efforts made by the State party to gradually harmonize federal legislation. While noting the information provided by the delegation during the dialogue that the devolution system in place at the federal level may intervene to harmonize legislation at all levels, the Committee remains concerned that gender equality structures and their mandates and resources vary between the Länder.

11. [...]. The Committee recommends that the State party should also consider amending the Equal Treatment Act and the Federal Equal Treatment Act and other acts addressing discrimination on the basis of ethnicity, disability, religion or belief, age and sexual orientation and relevant provincial laws, with a view to ensuring substantive and procedural protection against discrimination with regard to all prohibited grounds of discrimination in the private and public sectors.

Health

34. The Committee commends the State party for the adoption of the Action Plan for Women’s Health in 2017 and welcomes the measures adopted to integrate a gender perspective into all health sector programmes. Nevertheless, the Committee remains concerned about:

[...]

(d) The lack of comprehensive sexual and reproductive health education for adolescents;

[...]

(h) Reports of mostly irreversible medical and other treatments that are performed on intersex persons.

35. In line with its general recommendation No. 24 (1999) on women and health, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(d) Ensure that education includes mandatory and age-appropriate education in school curricula for girls and boys on sexual and reproductive health and rights, including responsible sexual behaviour. In particular, education programmes should integrate a special focus on eliminating sexual and gender stereotypes that might hinder access to health for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and other vulnerable groups of women;

(h) Develop and implement a rights-based health-care protocol for intersex persons, ensuring that children and their parents are appropriately informed of all options, that the children are involved, to the greatest extent possible, in decision-making about medical interventions and that their choices are respected and that no person is subjected to surgery or treatment without their free, informed and prior consent.
Disadvantaged groups of women

22. Please provide updated information and data on the human rights situation of women facing intersecting forms of discrimination, including migrant women, women with disabilities and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, and specify the measures, including temporary special measures, taken to ensure that they have effective access to education, health, housing, employment and participation in political and public life. [...]

(e) Stigmatization and discrimination faced by lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.

44. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(e) Ensure respect for the human rights of lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and that national action plans on gender equality address stigma and discrimination against them in all spheres of life.

General context and priority concerns

9. The Committee acknowledges the achievements made by the State party in the fields of peace, security and justice, through the signing in 2016 of the Final Agreement for Ending the Conflict and Building a Stable and Lasting Peace. The agreement established an important precedent in the participation of women in negotiations and the incorporation of a gender perspective into accords. It provides an important basis for the fulfilment of women’s human rights in the State party. The Committee is concerned, however, at the slow pace at which the implementation of the gender-related provisions of the agreement is proceeding and the lack of harmonization with the national development plan. The Committee is further concerned about indications that threats and violence, including sexual violence, against women human rights defenders have increased considerably in the period following the signing of the agreement and that the most vulnerable groups of women, in particular Colombian women of African descent, indigenous, rural, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and women with disabilities, continue to suffer serious violations of their rights without access to the protection of the State or to justice.

10. The Committee recommends that the State party, as a matter of priority, expedite the implementation of the gender provisions of the peace agreement and harmonize them with the national development plan, to ensure the protection of, and access to justice for, the most vulnerable groups of women in the State party.

Legislative and policy framework

11. The Committee notes the State party’s efforts to strengthen its legislative framework on gender since its previous review, in 2013. In particular, it notes with appreciation the elaboration of the pact for the equity of women in the proposed national development plan for the period from 2018 to 2022. The Committee also takes note of document 3918/2018 of the National Council on Economic and Social Policy, which establishes a road map for gender equality as a cross-cutting matter in the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals. The Committee is concerned, however, that the gender provisions of the proposed national development plan do not yet provide for specific budget allocations. The Committee is also concerned about the absence of efficient legislative and policy measures targeting the intersectional discrimination faced by women belonging to vulnerable groups.

12. Recalling its general recommendation No. 28 (2010) on the core obligations of States parties under article 2 of the Convention, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(b) Apply in its legislation the comprehensive definition of discrimination against women and girls contained in article 1 of the Convention, prohibit all discrimination against women, in accordance with article 2 (b) and ensure that legislation covers all prohibited grounds of discrimination, including protection from discrimination for indigenous women, Colombian women of African descent, rural women, women with disabilities and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, in the public and private spheres, and that it covers intersecting forms of discrimination.

Access to justice

13. The Committee welcomes measures taken to improve and increase access for women to justice and notes in particular the equity criteria for the administration of justice and the evaluation of judges and the capacity-building programmes on gender-related issues for competitive exams. [...] The Committee remains concerned, however, about the limited institutional capacity of the judiciary, in particular in rural areas, and the high level of impunity, in particular in cases related to femicide, sexual violence and violence against women human rights defenders, which disproportionately affect women from vulnerable groups, such as indigenous women, Colombian women of African descent, rural women, women with disabilities and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.

14. Recalling its general recommendation No. 33 (2015) on women's access to justice, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Strengthen the judicial system, including through additional financial, technical and specialized human resources, with a view to handling cases in a timely, gender-sensitive, non-discriminatory and competent manner in all of its territory, in particular in rural areas;

(d) Strengthen capacity-building programmes on the Convention for judges, prosecutors, lawyers and the police;

(e) Increase the number of judges and prosecutors specialized in sexual violence matters, as recommended in the Committee’s previous concluding observations (CEDAW/C/COL/CO/7-8, para. 18);

(f) Ensure access to legal aid services for women and girls and undertake awareness-raising campaigns to inform women and girls about their rights under the Convention.

20. Reiterating its previous recommendation (CEDAW/C/COL/CO/7-8, para. 12), the Committee recommends that the State party:

The Committee welcomes the directives developed by the Attorney General’s Office on parameters for ensuring due diligence in the investigation of cases of violence against women and the mechanisms established to implement agreement 10554/2016 regarding the obligation to consider gender in cases related to violence against women. The Committee is concerned, however, about the increasing and persistently high number of cases of gender-based violence against women and girls, including homicide and violence in institutions, and about the level of impunity for such acts. It is also concerned about the limited implementation of Act No. 1257/2008 concerning health services for victims and about the low capacity for integrated services, such as shelters, for victims in rural areas. The Committee notes the State party’s efforts to strengthen the role of the family commissioners and of model procedures developed for protective measures. It is concerned, however, that the family commissioners are not sufficiently funded or staffed, that they report to the local municipalities and that they are tasked with too
26. Recalling its general recommendation No. 35 (2017) on gender-based violence against women, updating general recommendation No. 19, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Strengthen its efforts, as a matter of priority and within a specific time frame, to implement the national plan for the prevention of gender-based violence against women and girls, including violence in institutions, in particular targeting indigenous women, Colombian women of African descent, rural women, women with disabilities and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women;

(b) Ensure the adequate and sustainable allocation of resources for the implementation of Act No. 1257/2008 concerning integrated and accessible services for victims in rural areas, in particular health services, and the provision of shelters for victims in rural areas;

(c) Consider restructuring the family commissioners under the Ministry of Justice, streamline their mandates and allocate sufficient human, technical and financial resources to strengthen them in their work;

Lesbian, bisexual and transgender women

43. The Committee is concerned about reports of widespread discrimination, threats and attacks directed against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women. The Committee is further concerned that, despite the fact that the Constitutional Court has ordered the legal recognition of same-sex marriages, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women continue to face unjustified delays, discriminatory interpretations and unforeseen requirements when exercising their rights. The Committee welcomes judgment T478/2015 of the Constitutional Court, which ordered the Ministry of Education to implement preventive and responsive measures against discrimination on the basis of sexual and gender identity and incorporate that information into school manuals. It is concerned, however, that those measures have not yet been fully implemented. The Committee is also concerned that the national school coexistence system, implemented in 2013, has not produced the expected results regarding the protection of lesbian, bisexual and transgender students.

44. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Effectively protect lesbian, bisexual and transgender women from violence and discrimination and ensure their access to justice, through the appropriate handling of their complaints, punishment of perpetrators and awarding of compensation to victims, and adopt measures to prevent hate crimes;

(b) Ensure compliance with the judgment of the Constitutional Court that orders the legal recognition of same-sex marriages and train civil servants who handle such requests;

(c) Take immediate steps to ensure compliance with judgment T-478/2015 of the Constitutional Court, including by raising public awareness in partnership with civil society organizations;

(d) Include in the national school coexistence system a more efficient programme on teaching children about the rights of lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.

Gender-based violence against women and girls

7. With reference to the Committee’s previous concluding observations (para. 21) and the follow-up report of the State party (CEDAW/C/ECU/CO/8-9/Add.1), please provide detailed information on steps taken to implement plans aimed at creating a unified register on gender-based violence against women and girls, with data disaggregated by age, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation, whether the victim was in detention, type of violence and relationship between the victim and the perpetrator, outlined in the national plan to eradicate gender-based violence against children, adolescents and women. [...] Please provide detailed information on measures taken to prevent, prohibit and sanction clinical practices of so-called “de-homosexualization”, which violate the rights of lesbian, bisexual and transgender women. [...]
Constitutional, legislative and institutional framework

3. Please provide information on provisions prohibiting direct and indirect discrimination in the public and private spheres and intersecting forms of discrimination in line with articles 1 and 2 (b) of the Convention, on the legal framework in place providing for the use of temporary special measures in line with article 4 (1) of the Convention, and on plans to revise discriminatory provisions of the Criminal Code, including articles 629 and 630 thereof, in which lesbian and bisexual women are criminalized.

Discriminatory gender stereotypes and harmful practices

8. In the light of the Committee’s previous recommendations (CEDAW/C/CO/ETH/6-7, para. 21 (a)), please provide information on measures taken to increase the penalties for female genital mutilation and, if an assessment was conducted, on the achievements of the national strategy on harmful traditional practices and of the accompanying action plan on addressing female genital mutilation, child marriage and abduction since their adoption in 2013 (CEDAW/C/ETH/CO/6-7, para. 19 (d)). [...] Please also describe measures taken to raise awareness of, prevent and eradicate polygamy and the practice of so-called “corrective rape”, to which lesbian and bisexual women reportedly fall victim.
Definition of non-discrimination

3. Please clarify how the State party plans to incorporate into national legislation, including the Prevention of Discrimination Act, No. 26 of 1997, a definition of discrimination against women that prohibits indirect discrimination and intersecting forms of discrimination, in view of the State party’s commitment to prevent discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity (para. 27).

Disadvantaged groups of women

21. With reference to the Committee’s previous recommendations (CEDAW/C/GUY/CO/7-8, paras. 22–23), please provide detailed information on the State party’s efforts to effectively address violence against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons and to decriminalize consensual adult same-sex relations. Please also inform the Committee about the progress made towards decriminalizing cross-dressing, addressing the reports of police harassment, arrest and verbal abuse of, violence against, and reluctance to record complaints of discrimination submitted by, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons. Please indicate the measures taken to improve access to health care and employment for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons and to address reported discrimination in those areas.

Definition of discrimination against women

13. The Committee notes that articles 149 and 149 F of the Constitution prohibit discrimination on grounds of gender and sex and further notes the efforts undertaken to begin reviewing the Prevention of Discrimination Act (1997) to prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity in employment. It remains concerned, however, that the definition of discrimination in the Constitution, the Prevention of Discrimination Act (1997) and the Equal Rights Act (1990) is not in line with articles 1 and 2 of the Convention.

14. The Committee reiterates its previous recommendations (ibid., para. 13) that the State party expedite the adoption of a comprehensive definition of discrimination against women, which covers direct, indirect and intersecting forms of discrimination in the public and private spheres, in line with articles 1 and 2 of the Convention, the Committee’s general recommendation No. 28 (2010) on the core obligations of States parties under article 2 of the Convention and target 5.1 of the Sustainable Development Goals, to end all forms of discrimination against all women and girls everywhere.

Lesbian, bisexual, transgender women and intersex persons

47. The Committee notes the ongoing development of training tools for health-care workers on stigma and discrimination against lesbian, bisexual, transgender women and intersex persons. It expresses concern, however, that lesbian, bisexual, transgender women and intersex persons face discrimination in law and in practice in the State party, as well as physical and sexual violence, including at the hands of law enforcement officers. Moreover, it is concerned at delays in adopting legislation protecting lesbian, bisexual, transgender women and intersex persons from discrimination at work and in health-care facilities, hate crimes, gender-based violence and arbitrary arrest by law enforcement officers.

48. The Committee recalls its previous concluding observations (CEDAW/C/GUY/CO/7-8, para. 23 (f)) and recommends that the State party adopt legislative and policy measures to protect lesbian, bisexual, transgender women and intersex persons from discrimination, including at work, in health-care facilities and by law enforcement personnel, and from hate crimes, gender-based violence and arbitrary arrest, to investigate, prosecute and adequately punish perpetrators of such acts, in line with commitments made during the universal periodic review (A/HRC/29/16, paras. 130.25–130.27), and to provide safe spaces, support and reparation, including compensation, to victims.

Gender-based violence against women

11. Please provide information on measures taken by the State party to combat impunity for crimes committed in the name of so-called “honour”, including rape, torture and murder, against women politicians, journalists, teachers, doctors, human rights defenders, women returnees in the aftermath of the conflict with ISIL, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons for challenging traditional gender stereotypes on the role of women in the family and in society and measures taken to comply with its due diligence obligation to prevent, investigate, prosecute and punish such crimes, and to ensure that sentences are commensurate with the gravity of the offences committed.
Constitutional and legislative framework

2. Please indicate the measures taken to ensure that the amendments to be introduced in certain legislative acts related to family and gender policy issues, including regarding the definition of direct and indirect discrimination, as well as the change envisaged in the definition of gender equality in the Act on State guarantees of equal rights and equal opportunities for men and women (the Gender Equality Act), contain a comprehensive legal definition of discrimination against women in line with article 1 of the Convention that encompasses direct and indirect discrimination both in the public and private spheres, as well as intersecting forms of discrimination, and prohibits and sanctions all forms of discrimination against women, including discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, in conformity with the Convention.

Gender-based violence against women

10. In view of the Committee's previous concluding observations, please indicate whether steps are envisaged to revise the Criminal Code (art. 120) to ensure that the definition of the crime of rape is in accordance with the Convention and the Committee's jurisprudence under the Optional Protocol (CEDAW/C/KAZ/CO/3-4, para. 19 (d)). Please clarify the references to "lesbianism" in articles 121 to 123 of the Code.

Access to justice and legal complaints mechanisms

13. The Committee notes that a major legislation overhaul initiated in 2016 has led to the strengthening of the court system, increased transparency in court procedures and the development of an e-justice system, with around 70 per cent of lawsuits now being submitted electronically, which has facilitated access to justice in rural areas. It also welcomes the establishment of a working group to develop a legal mechanism for implementing treaty bodies' recommendations on individual communications. However, the Committee is concerned about the following:

14. The Committee recommends that the State party:

15. Ensure that article 145 of the Criminal Code encompasses intersecting forms of discrimination, such as discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, and ensure that all women, including disadvantaged groups of women (see para. 48 below), are aware of this provision and other remedies available in the case of a violation of their rights and that they have effective access to legal aid and can seek redress and compensation;

Civil society organisations

17. The Committee welcomes the increase in grants made available to civil society organizations, including those... working on gender issues. However, it is concerned about the overall limited cooperation of the State party with civil society and about the cases of registration being denied to feminist organizations promoting women's human rights and the rights of lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons for reasons of non-compliance with “spiritual and moral values, culture, prestige and the role of the family”, as stated in one such decision. In this context, it also notes that the vision for the development of civil society for the period up to 2025 is pending approval.

18. The Committee recommends that the State party take advantage of the adoption of the vision for the development of civil society for the period up to 2025:

(a) To enhance cooperation with civil society organizations, in particular those working on women’s rights, to ensure that they play a strong role in the area of the advancement of women and are meaningfully involved in policymaking and law-making processes;

(b) To review the law on charities to remove disproportionate restrictions on the registration of civil society organizations and ensure that such organizations, including feminist organizations promoting women’s human rights and the rights of lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons, are able to exercise their rights to freedom of expression, assembly and association without undue interference.

Gender-based violence against women

25. The Committee notes the 2014 amendments to the law on domestic violence of 2009 that provide for restraining and protection orders and social assistance to victims of domestic violence. It also takes note of the State party’s intention to adopt the bill on countering domestic violence and to ratify the Council of Europe Convention on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women and Domestic Violence. However, the Committee notes with concern the following:

(h) The subjection of women with disabilities, in particular those living in institutions, to forced sterilization and forced abortion, police violence against women in prostitution, the mandatory gender reassignment surgery for transgender women for the purpose of legal gender recognition and the limited access to justice for the victims of those forms of gender-based violence.

26. Recalling its general recommendation no. 35 (2017) on gender-based violence against women, updating general recommendation No. 19, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(i) Ensure that forced sterilization and abortion are criminalized and perpetrators prosecuted, abolish mandatory gender reassignment surgery, in law and in practice, identify and eliminate the barriers preventing victims from gaining access to justice in rural and urban areas and ensure that all victims have access to effective reparation, including compensation;

47. The Committee is concerned about reports that women with disabilities, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons, refugee women, asylum seeking women, stateless women and women with undetermined citizenship continue to experience multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination.

48. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(b) With regard to lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons:

(i) Review the legislation, including article 257 (13) of the Code on Marriage and Family, to remove sex reassignment surgery from the list of requirements for gender recognition;

(ii) Ensure that its health-care policies and HIV programme take into account the needs of transgender women;

(iii) Criminalize offences based on sexual orientation and/or gender identity as a stand-alone crime and consider “sexual orientation and gender identity” as aggravating circumstances if they are used as a motive for committing a crime;

(iv) Revise articles 121 to 123 of the Criminal Code to remove the reference to “lesbianism”;

(v) Investigate reports of threats and blackmailing against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons and prosecute the perpetrators and bring them to justice, as appropriate;

(vi) Ensure that lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons are not prosecuted merely on the ground of their real or assumed sexual orientation or gender identity;

Follow-up to concluding observations

53. The Committee requests the State party to provide, within two years, written information on the steps taken to implement the recommendations contained in paragraphs 26 (b), (c) and (i) and 38 (d) above.
Constitutional, legislative and institutional framework

3. In accordance with the State party’s obligations under articles 1 and 2 of the Convention, and in line with target 5.1 of the Sustainable Development Goals, to end all forms of discrimination against all women and girls everywhere, please provide information on the measures taken or envisaged to amend the Constitution and adopt comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation to guarantee the substantive equality of women and men, to define and prohibit direct and indirect discrimination in the public and private spheres and to protect women who face intersecting forms of discrimination, including rural women, women living in the outer islands, women with disabilities, low-income women and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.
Disadvantaged groups of women

21. Please provide information on the measures in place to ensure access to justice, employment, health care, including sexual and reproductive health services, and social protection for disadvantaged groups of women, including women belonging to ethnic minority groups, refugee and asylum-seeking women, migrant women, older women, women with disabilities, women living with HIV/AIDS, women using drugs and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women. Please also indicate if the State party has taken any steps to adopt a comprehensive national programme for migrant women and to combat discrimination and violence by the police against women in disadvantaged situations, in particular, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, women living with HIV/AIDS and women using drugs.
Marriage and family relations

23. Please provide information on whether non-traditional families, including de facto unions and same-sex couples, are fully encompassed in the notion of family used in the State party’s laws, policies, programmes and strategies, in line with the Committee’s general recommendation No. 21 (1994) on equality in marriage and family relations and general recommendation No. 29 (2013) on the economic consequences of marriage, family relations and their dissolution, respectively.
Marriage and family relations

19. Please provide information on the steps taken by the State party to give effect to the Committee’s recommendation (CEDAW/C/LTU/CO/5, para. 41 (a)), in order to ensure that non-traditional families, including same-sex couples and de facto unions, are fully encompassed in the notion of family used in all State laws, policies, programmes and strategies, in line with the Committee’s general recommendation No. 21 (1994) on equality in marriage and family relations and No. 29 (2013) on the economic consequences of marriage, family relations and their dissolution. Definition of equality and non-discrimination

10. The Committee recognizes the improvements to the State party’s legislative framework aimed at ensuring equality between women and men and prohibiting gender-based discrimination, including direct and indirect discrimination on various grounds. However, it notes with concern:

11. The Committee recommends that the State party consider adopting comprehensive legislation on gender equality and non-discrimination. It further recommends that the State party:

Keywords: LBTI; access to justice, GC/GR, intersectionality, women
Access to justice and legal complaint mechanisms

12. The Committee welcomes the legal aid reform of 2019 that provides for primary legal assistance (except in proceedings before courts) for all persons in vulnerable situations, including women, and secondary legal assistance in court proceedings to all victims, inter alia, of gender-based violence, including sexual and domestic violence, and hate crimes, irrespective of their financial status. However, the Committee notes that, in 2018, the Office of the Equal Opportunities Ombudsperson did not receive any complaints from women or girls with disabilities and that there was a low number of complaints of discrimination on the basis of sex or gender overall, due in part to the absence of regional and local branches of the Office.

13. In the light of its general recommendation No. 33 (2015) on women’s access to justice, the Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Ensure full access to justice for disadvantaged or marginalized groups, such as women belonging to minority groups, migrant, rural and older women, women with disabilities, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons;

(b) Raise awareness among women of the remedies available to them to claim violations of their rights under the Convention;

(c) Expand the scope of the Office of the Equal Opportunities Ombudsperson so as to facilitate access to justice for all women at the regional and local levels.

Please indicate how existing policies address the situation of girls, women with disabilities, migrant, asylum-seeking, refugee women, older women, and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.
Constitutional, legislative and institutional framework and definition of discrimination

1. In the fourth periodic report of the State party (CEDAW/C/SRB/4, para. 8), it is stated that the bill amending the Law on the Prohibition of Discrimination, developed in cooperation with the Equality Commissioner and the European Commission, is fully compliant with European Union directives, including the definition of indirect discrimination. Please explain which specific provisions have been harmonized and whether they cover all forms of discrimination against women, direct and indirect, including those that are intersecting on the basis of residence, disability, age, ethnicity, religion, sex, sexual orientation and gender identity, in the public and private spheres. B. Positive aspects

4. The Committee welcomes the progress achieved since the consideration in 2013 of the State party’s combined second and third periodic reports (CEDAW/C/SRB/23) in undertaking legislative reforms, in particular the adoption of the following:

102 CEDAW/C/SRB/Q/4
103 CEDAW/C/SRB/CO/4
(b) Law on Asylum and Temporary Protection, prohibiting persecution on the grounds of sex, gender or gender identity and prohibiting gender-based violence, in 2018;

Legislative framework and definition of discrimination

11. The Committee notes the information provided by the State party that the new draft law on the prohibition of discrimination, which defines and prohibits direct and indirect discrimination, sexual harassment and incitement to discrimination, is pending adoption before the National Assembly. It also notes that it is envisaged that the new draft law on gender equality will outlaw direct and indirect discrimination. The Committee is nevertheless concerned that the adoption of those laws has been hampered by a lack of political consensus.

12. The Committee encourages the State party:

(a) To adopt the new draft law on the prohibition of discrimination without further delay;

(b) To review, with a view to its timely adoption, the new draft law on gender equality in line with the Convention through an inclusive, participatory process in cooperation with civil society organizations focusing on women’s rights, while ensuring that the law addresses direct, indirect and intersecting forms of discrimination, including on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity;

(c) To ensure sufficient budget allocations for, as well as regular monitoring and impact assessment of, anti-discrimination laws, to ensure that all women, including the most vulnerable groups, fully benefit from their provisions;

(d) To raise awareness of those laws, especially among women belonging to disadvantaged groups.

Employment

35. The Committee commends the State party’s efforts to ensure the equality of women and men in the labour market and to combat gender-based discrimination. It welcomes the active employment measures taken with regard to Roma women and women with disabilities. However, the Committee remains concerned about the following:

(e) The lack of measures to address sexual harassment in the workplace, specifically with regard to young women and lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons, including the disproportionately low number of convictions for sexual harassment, which adversely affects women’s possibilities for employment and promotion.

36. The Committee recalls its previous recommendations (CEDAW/C/SRB/CO/2-3, para. 31) and urges the State party:

(f) To undertake a comprehensive survey to assess the prevalence of sexual harassment at the workplace; encourage reporting of sexual harassment at the workplace and raise public awareness of its discriminatory nature, its negative impact on women’s employment and potential sanctions; strengthen the mechanism to address cases of sexual harassment effectively, including in court; and collect statistics, disaggregated by age, origin, geographical area and relationship with the perpetrator, on the number and nature of complaints of sexual harassment at the workplace in the public and private sectors.

Health

37. The Committee commends the adoption of the national programme for the preservation and improvement of sexual and reproductive health, in 2017. However, it is concerned about the following:

(f) Reports that lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons are excluded from family planning services, including artificial insemination.

38. The Committee recalls its previous recommendations (CEDAW/C/SRB/CO/2-3, para. 33) and urges the State party:

(d) To enhance access to family planning services and artificial insemination for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons.

Lesbian, bisexual and transgender women

43. The Committee notes that consensual same-sex relationships have been decriminalized. It is concerned, however, about acts of gender-based violence and persistent societal discrimination against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women.

44. The Committee recommends that the State party make the necessary legislative changes and implement a policy to eliminate gender-based discrimination and violence against lesbian, bisexual and transgender women, including by prosecuting and adequately punishing perpetrators, and conduct awareness-raising activities to eliminate their stigmatization within society.

16. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(c) Review and amend the public sector equality duty in order to address situations of intersecting forms of discrimination, such as discrimination faced by “Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic” women, older women, women with disabilities, asylum-seeking and refugee women, lesbian, bisexual and transgender women and intersex persons;

III. Main areas of concern and recommendations

4. The Committee reminds the State party of the indivisibility and interdependence of all the rights enshrined in the Convention and emphasizes the importance of all the recommendations contained in the present concluding observations. The Committee would like to draw the State party’s attention to the recommendations concerning the following areas, in respect of which urgent measures must be taken: violence, including sexual violence, abuse and neglect (para. 30), children deprived of a family environment (para. 34), mental health (para. 38), the impact of climate change on the rights of the child (para. 41), asylum-seeking, refugee and migrant children (para. 45) and administration of child justice (para. 48).

Violence, including sexual violence, abuse and neglect

29. The Committee welcomes the creation in 2018 of the National Office for Child Safety; the financial commitment made in March 2019 towards the establishment of the National Centre for the Prevention of Child Sexual Abuse; the adoption of the National Framework for Protecting Australia’s Children 2009–2020; the adoption of the National Plan to Reduce Violence against Women and their Children 2010–2022; the report of the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse of December 2017; and the Prime Minister’s National Apology to Victims and Survivors of Institutional Child Sexual Abuse on 22 October 2018. However, the Committee remains seriously concerned:

(g) About the limited information available regarding violence against children in remote areas, children with culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex children.

30. With reference to its general comment No. 13 (2011) on the right of the child to freedom from all forms of violence and taking note of target 16.2 of the Sustainable Development Goals, the Committee recalls its previous recommendations on violence against children and women (CRC/C/AUS/CO/4, paras. 47–48) and urges the State party:

(h) Encourage community-based programmes to address violence in all its forms against children in remote areas, children with culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex children.

III. Main areas of concern and recommendations

5. The Committee reminds the State party of the indivisibility and interdependence of all the rights enshrined in the Convention and emphasizes the importance of all the recommendations contained in the present concluding observations. The Committee would like to draw the State party’s attention to the recommendations concerning the following areas, in respect of which urgent measures must be taken: non-discrimination (para. 17), the right to life, survival and development (para. 20), violence against children, including corporal punishment (para. 27), sexual exploitation and abuse (para. 29), education and the aims of education (para. 42) and the administration of child justice (para. 47).

Non-discrimination

16. While welcoming the measures taken to support children in disadvantaged situations, the Committee remains concerned that the adoption of a draft anti-discrimination act has been hampered since 2007. It is also concerned that:

(d) Cases of discrimination based on sexual orientation are persistent, a situation that the State party acknowledged by stating that its policies regarding young lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons is inadequate (CRC/C/KOR/5-6, para. 36).

17. Taking note of target 10.3 of the Sustainable Development Goals on ensuring equal opportunity and reducing inequalities of outcome, including by eliminating discriminatory laws, policies and practices and promoting appropriate legislation, policies and action in this regard, the Committee urges the State party to expeditiously adopt anti-discrimination legislation and ensure that such legislation prohibits discrimination based on origin, sexual orientation and gender identity. It also recommends that the State party:

(a) Enact a comprehensive anti-discrimination law and strategy and conduct public campaigns to eliminate and prevent discrimination against children in vulnerable and disadvantaged situations;

(b) Ensure that all children within its territory are equally able to be registered at birth and have access to childcare facilities, education, healthcare, welfare, leisure and State support;

Education and the aims of education

41. The Committee welcomes the adoption of the Special Act on the Promotion of the Normalization of Public Education and Regulation of Prior Learning, which aims to eradicate the practice of prior learning (i.e. the taking of private classes at the preschool level in preparation for school), the extension of the school admission quota for vulnerable groups of children, the introduction of the “free semester system” and the provision of support to out-of-school children. [...] It is also seriously concerned about the highly competitive education conditions, which virtually deprive children of their childhood, and also about:

(g) The lack of adequate and age-appropriate education on sexuality, in the context of adolescent pregnancies and increased HIV prevalence;

[...].

42. Recalling target 4.5 of the Sustainable Development Goals on eliminating gender disparities in education and ensuring equal access to all levels of education and vocational training for the vulnerable, including persons with disabilities, indigenous peoples and children in vulnerable situations, the Committee urges the State party to reform its public education system in line with the Committee’s general comment No. 1 (2001) on the aims of education and with a view to reducing competitiveness, including by diversifying the national curriculum, reconsidering its college admissions system and strengthening career counselling. Furthermore, it urges the State party:

47. The Committee urges the State party to:

(n) Ensure that all children in conflict with the law are treated equally and without discrimination, regardless of their nationality, disability status, sexual orientation or gender identity, and provide reasonable accommodation whenever appropriate.

Keywords: LGBT, LGBTI; access to justice, discrimination, follow-up, investigation, law enforcement officials, measures, police, prevention, prosecution, training, violence

Situation of vulnerable persons and hate crimes

35. The Committee is concerned:

(d) While acknowledging the State party’s statement that all hate crimes are of “particular interest” to the Public Prosecutor’s Office and Police, the Committee remains concerned at the incidents of physical assaults and hate speech against migrants from Africa, Asia, Arab migrants, as well as Roma and Ukrainians; and that cases of hate crimes are substantially underreported due to lack of confidence in the police, according to a recent Survey report on the nature and scale of unreported hate crimes developed by ODIHR and the NHRC of Poland; and that the violent incidents against LGBTI persons continue to be reported and that these acts of violence are not adequately investigated and prosecuted;

[...].

36. The State party should:

(e) Ensure that all cases of hate crimes are reported and that reasons for the gross underreporting are addressed as a matter of urgency through appropriate measures, including training of and trust-building activities within the national police. The Committee reiterates its previous recommendation to take all necessary measures to combat discrimination and violence against persons of Arab, Asian and African origin, lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people as well as persons belonging to the Roma community; and to take effective measures to prevent all manifestations of hate crimes and ensure prompt and effective investigation and appropriate prosecutions of all such incidents;

Hate crimes

62. While acknowledging the legislative and other measures taken by the State party to tackle hate crime and prejudice, the Committee is concerned by the reports it has received from both government sources and community-based organizations reflecting a marked increase in the incidence of racist, xenophobic, anti-Semitic, anti-Muslim, anti-disabled and anti-transgender crimes in recent years, and by estimates that only 2 per cent of all hate crimes result in a successful conviction with an enhanced sentence for hostility on the basis of a protected characteristic (art. 16).

63. The State party should strengthen its efforts to investigate alleged hate crimes and prosecute perpetrators, including by improving hate crimes training for the police and improving their initial handling of hate crimes reports.

Intersex persons

64. While noting that in January 2019 the Government Equalities Office launched a call for evidence to better understand the experiences of intersex persons in the United Kingdom, the Committee remains concerned about reports of cases of unnecessary surgery and other medical treatment with lifelong consequences, including severe pain and suffering, to which intersex children have been subjected. The Committee is further concerned about the lack of legal provisions providing redress and rehabilitation in such cases (arts. 14 and 16).

65. The State party should ensure that:

(a) The parents or guardians of intersex children receive impartial counselling services and psychological and social support, including information on the possibility of deferring any decision on unnecessary treatment until they can be carried out with the full, free and informed consent of the person concerned;

(b) Persons who have been subjected to such procedures without their consent and resulting in severe pain and suffering obtain redress, including the means for rehabilitation.

155  CAT/C/GBR/CO/6
9. Please provide information on whether the State party has investigated allegations that members of the police have subjected lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people to torture and violence while in detention and have failed to investigate acts of violence perpetrated against them by private persons. Please indicate any measures that the State party is taking to exercise due diligence to prevent, stop and sanction violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people, including by collecting:

(a) Data on any prosecutions and convictions of public officials for subjecting lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people to torture and violence;

(b) Data on investigations, prosecutions and convictions of private individuals for engaging in violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people during the reporting period;

(c) Information on whether any lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender victims of violence have obtained redress.

63. The Committee is concerned at reports that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons are subjected to: violence and torture while in detention; persecution by the police, including through entrapment schemes carried out using websites, threatening videos and extortion; and violence by private persons. The Committee is also concerned that the State party indicated that it has no cases open involving violence against lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender persons. In addition, it is concerned about reports that the criminalization of same-sex sexual relations in article 120 of the criminal procedure code renders lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons particularly vulnerable to violence by both law enforcement officials and private persons. This is because lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons are reluctant to contact the authorities to seek protection from violence for fear of being arrested (arts. 2, 12–14 and 16).

64. The State party should undertake prompt, effective and impartial investigations of all allegations of torture and ill-treatment perpetrated against lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender persons by or with the consent or acquiescence of public officials. The State party also should take measures to prevent violence and discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender persons on the basis of their sexual orientation and gender identity, including by repealing article 120 of the criminal code and ensuring that its complaints mechanisms are accessible to and capable of facilitating effective protection for lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender persons who are victims of or at risk of violence.

(b) Adopt clear legislative provisions that explicitly prohibit the performance of unnecessary, invasive and irreversible medical interventions, including surgical, hormonal or other medical procedures on intersex children before they reach the legal age of consent; also provide adequate counselling and support for the families of intersex children and redress to intersex persons having undergone such medical procedures;

Equality and non-discrimination (art. 5)

8. The Committee is concerned that there is lack of recognition and prohibition of multiple and intersectional discrimination, especially against women, indigenous persons and persons of African descent with disabilities. It is also concerned that legislation, such as the Law on Equality, Fairness, and the Elimination of Discrimination against Women and the Special Comprehensive Law for a Violence-free Life for Women, does not include or consider the perspective of women and girls with disabilities, especially those with psychosocial or intellectual disabilities. It is concerned about the lack of progress in recognizing denial of reasonable accommodation as a form of disability-based discrimination under the law.

9. Recalling its general comment No. 6 (2018) on equality and non-discrimination, the Committee recommends that the State party adopt effective legal and policy measures, including the prohibition of all forms of discrimination against persons with disabilities, particularly on the grounds of disability, sex, age, ethnicity and gender identity. 12. The Committee is concerned about:

(a) The lack of an explicit prohibition of disability-based discrimination in the Constitution, and the exception to the anti-discrimination clause in section 3 (3) of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, which allows discrimination against persons with disabilities under certain circumstances;

(b) Multiple and intersecting discrimination and discrimination by association in legislation and in practice against persons affected by leprosy and their family members, particularly women, who experience isolation, seclusion in “leprosy colonies” or at home, rejection from school, dismissal from jobs, and barriers to autonomy;

(c) The absence of measures to combat multiple and intersecting discrimination against, inter alia, persons with disabilities in scheduled castes and scheduled tribes, including Dalits and Adivasi, older persons with disabilities, persons with disabilities living with HIV/AIDS, indigenous persons with disabilities, persons with disabilities who belong to ethnic, linguistic and religious minorities, and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons with disabilities;

(d) The lack of effective redress in cases of discrimination on the basis of disability and multiple and intersecting discrimination, including gender-based discrimination against women with disabilities.

13. The Committee recommends that the State party, guided by the Committee’s general comment No. 6 (2018) on equality and non-discrimination and taking account of targets 10.2 and 10.3 of the Sustainable Development Goals:

(a) Amend the Constitution to explicitly prohibit disability-based discrimination and repeal section 3 (3) of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, ensuring that its legislation recognizes direct and indirect disability-based discrimination and multiple and intersecting discrimination as faced by persons with disabilities;

(b) Repeal all discriminatory legislation against persons affected by leprosy in all areas, including provisions in the Hindu marriage rules and the family court rules and provisions restricting their freedom of movement or preventing them from participating in public life, and be guided by the principles and guidelines for the elimination of discrimination against persons affected by leprosy and their family members (A/HRC/15/30, annex) in order to address the situation of persons affected by leprosy and their family members;

Awareness-raising (art. 8)

18. The Committee is concerned about:

(a) The prevalence of prejudices and stigmas underpinning the isolation and segregation of persons with disabilities, and the limited impact of and lack of information provided by awareness-raising campaigns undertaken in rural areas, where disability is seen as an "outcome of fate";

(b) The regressive negative portrayal of persons with disabilities in the media, and a recent spate of unaddressed discriminatory and derogatory narratives by political leaders and actors;

(c) The lack of information made available on the Convention and other disability-rights related laws and policies, particularly in states in the north-east region.

(b) Implement comprehensive awareness-raising programmes, including training, for policymakers, administrative staff at all levels of authority, the judiciary, law enforcement officers, the media, professionals and staff working with and for persons with disabilities and their families. 39. The Committee recommends that the State party:

Keywords: LGBTI; decision-making process, GC/GR, intersectionality, legislation, policy

A. General principles and obligations (arts. 1–4)

6. The Committee is concerned that several national, regional and municipal laws and policies, particularly the revised text of the general act on the rights of persons with disabilities and their social inclusion (2013) and the Personal Autonomy Promotion Act (2006), are not compliant with the Convention or the human rights model of disability. [...]. The Committee is also concerned about:

It is also concerned that the denial of reasonable accommodation is not recognized as a form of discrimination in all areas of life.

9. The Committee recommends that the State party refer to the Committee’s general comment No. 6 (2018) on equality and non-discrimination and targets 10.2 and 10.3 of the Sustainable Development Goals, to revise its anti-discrimination legislation, policies and strategies, including the Equality Act, to adhere to the Convention and to explicitly recognize and prohibit multiple and intersectional discrimination on the grounds of disability, sex, age, ethnicity, gender identity, sexual orientation and any other status, in all areas of life. Racial hatred and incitement to racial discrimination

10. The Committee is concerned about the increase in discriminatory views, racial hatred and xenophobia in the State party, especially towards migrants, in particular migrants living with HIV and lesbian, gay, transgender, bisexual and intersex migrants. The Committee reiterates its previous concern that criminal legislation is still not fully in conformity with article 4 of the Convention and that it still contains no reference to propaganda activities that promote and incite racial discrimination (arts. 4 and 6).

11. The Committee refers the State party to its general recommendations No. 15 (1993) on article 4 of the Convention and No. 35 (2013) on combating racist hate speech and recommends that the State party:

(a) Take effective measures to prevent and combat hate speech, incitement to racial discrimination and expressions of racism;

(c) Carry out public awareness-raising campaigns on respect for diversity and the elimination of racial discrimination;

(d) Criminalize the dissemination of ideas that justify or promote racial hatred and prohibit organizations that promote and incite racial discrimination, as previously recommended by the Committee.

Guatemala – Concluding Observations – 30th Session, 2 May 2019, 2nd review

Keywords: LGBTI; anti-discrimination legislation, awareness-raising campaign, discrimination, intersectionality, stigmatization, violence

2. General principles (arts. 7 and 83)

Non-discrimination

26. The Committee notes that the State party’s constitutional and legislative framework includes provisions to combat discrimination and xenophobia and recognizes the equal rights and dignity of all individuals in the territory of the State party, whether or not they are nationals. However, the Committee is concerned about the following:

(a) Discriminatory attitudes on the part of some public officials, the mistreatment of women and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, as well as xenophobic responses in border areas of Guatemala;

[...].

27. The Committee recommends that the State party:

(a) Further promote the hospitality and solidarity for which Guatemalans are well known and advocate, in migrant host communities, a culture of peace and dialogue, in other words, the peaceful resolution of conflicts and the appreciation of diversity, in order to meet the challenges of migration and the mass movement of persons;

(c) Adopt specific legislation classifying as a punishable act the various forms of discrimination, in accordance with article 7 of the Convention, and to amend national legislation where necessary to bring it into line with the Convention;

(d) Focus on combating social stigmatization and sanction all forms of aggression and violence against migrants, with particular emphasis on protecting women, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, and children victims of assault, and develop campaigns against machismo and homophobia and promote social inclusion and respect for diversity;

Right to the truth, to reparation and to prompt, fair and adequate compensation

34. The Committee is concerned that the Truth Commission does not have sufficient resources to carry out its investigative work on enforced disappearances. [...] It is also concerned that the reparations granted to victims do not include all the modalities established in article 24.5 of the Convention, as well as the fact that only 20% of the amount to be granted to victims has been paid. It is also concerned at the lack of measures to guarantee reparation to victims of enforced disappearances that may currently occur (art. 24).

35. The Committee recommends that the State party take the necessary measures to:

(d) Ensure that the reparations system is sensitive to the individual conditions of the victims, taking into account, for example, their sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, ethnic origin, social situation and disability, and is in full compliance with article 24, paragraphs 4 and 5.
Definition of “victim” and the right to obtain reparation and prompt, fair and adequate compensation

28. The Committee is concerned to note that, under Act No. 30470 on the Search for Persons Who Disappeared during the Violence of 1980–2000 and Act No. 28592 establishing the Comprehensive Reparations Plan, only disappeared persons and members of their families, not all the persons referred to in article 24 (1) of the Convention, are regarded as victims, and that this definition excludes persons such as the spouses or partners of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons. [...]

29. The Committee recommends that the State party take the necessary measures to:

(b) Ensure that all victims of enforced disappearance have access to full reparation and that all obstacles and restrictions hindering their registration in the Comprehensive Reparations Programme are eliminated;

(c) Ensure that the system for awarding reparations takes into account the personal circumstances of the victims, such as their sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, ethnic origin, social status and disability, and is fully in line with the provisions of article 24 (4) and (5);

[...].

D. Dissemination and follow-up

39. In accordance with the Committee’s rules of procedure, the State party is requested to provide, no later than 18 April 2020, relevant information on the implementation of the Committee’s recommendations contained in paragraphs 15 (definition of enforced disappearance and appropriate penalties), 29 (definition of “victim” and the right to obtain reparation) and 33 (search for disappeared persons) of the present concluding observations.
Right to reparation and prompt, fair and adequate compensation

24. The Committee takes note of the different systems to obtain compensation in the State party. However, it is concerned that domestic law does not fully guarantee the right of victims of enforced disappearance to obtain adequate compensation and all forms of reparation provided for in article 24 (5) of the Convention under the responsibility of the State. [...].

25. The State party should guarantee the right to reparation and to prompt, fair and adequate compensation of all persons who have suffered harm as a direct result of an enforced disappearance, regardless of their nationality. To this effect, the Committee recommends that the State party adopt the necessary measures, including the revision of the Victims Act, to guarantee that its domestic legislation provides for a comprehensive system of compensation and reparation that is fully compliant with article 24 (4) and (5) of the Convention and other relevant international standards; for which the State is responsible and is applicable even if no criminal proceedings have been initiated; and that is sensitive to the victims’ individual characteristics, taking into account, for instance, their sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, ethnic origin, social status and disability.

Keywords: SOGI; follow-up, intersectionality, reparation

D. Dissemination and follow-up

31. In accordance with the Committee’s rules of procedure, the State party is requested to provide, not later than 11 October 2020, information relevant to the implementation of the Committee’s recommendations contained in paragraphs 11 (National Human Rights Institution), 23 (Training) and 25 (Right to reparation and prompt, fair and adequate compensation) of the present concluding observations.
